Over the past years, Rerun has fostered much community bonding in the Northeast Portland neighborhood, with eons of give-and-take transactions. Not unlike a garage sale, Rerun stocks endless, timeless items ranging from objects of mere ornamental importance to apparel to several furniture items. Even if one isn't consciously seeking anything in particular, digging through stuff at Rerun is always fun due the resultant discovery. You can even sell household items, old movies, jewelry or whatever else you would like to put out in the universe, for someone else to find.
