Cafe Dog & Cats

"World's First Cat Cafe"

Cafe Dog & Cats opened in 1998, beginning a trend that would later revolutionize coffee drinking for animals lovers. Originally called Cat Flower Garden, the innovative Taipei joint was the very first cat cafe in the entire world, creating a cozy space for city dwellers to relax alongside feline companions after a long day. As its new name suggests, Cafe Dog & Cats has since welcomed canine friends, as well. Beyond a variety of coffees and teas, the Cafe Dog & Cats menu also offers continental fare and even a few alcoholic drinks. Animal lovers of all ages traveling around Taipei will love this groundbreaking cafe.

The Cat Boat

"Kitties Afloat"

Back in the 1960s, one sweet lady took in a stray cat and her kittens. Her house soon became too small for all the cats that followed and she moved to a houseboat in one of Amsterdam's lively canals. Even though cats hate water, they flourished in their new home and it since became a cat shelter where cats can go their own way, are not confined to cages and walk around like little captains. It is a unique and remarkable place. Two hours a day tourists are very welcome to come aboard and see this amazing shelter for themselves.

Area Sacra

"Agguato a Giulio Cesare"

Si tratta del più grande complesso archeologico di età repubblicana mai scoperto e la tradizione vuole che proprio qui nel 44 a.C. venne ucciso Giulio Cesare. I resti di quattro templi sono stati scoperti durante gli scavi del 1920 e sicuramente colpirà il turista vedere questi resti archeologici esposti alla vita cittadina, dove i gatti trovano rifugio coccolati dalle vecchiette che considerano queste antiche pietre un po' come casa loro. Il tempio più antico, di cui si può vedere il pavimento a mosaico, risale al III secolo a.C. e sembra dedicato alla divinità italica Feronia. Per la visita telefonare o mandare un fax.

Big Cat Rescue

"Up Close to Big Cats"

Big Cat Rescue is the largest accredited sanctuary in the world dedicated entirely to abused and abandoned big cats. They are home to over 100 lions, tigers, bobcats, cougars and other species, most of whom have been abandoned, abused, orphaned, saved from being turned into fur coats, or retired from performing acts. Their dual mission is to provide the best home they can for the cats in their care and educate the public about the plight of these majestic animals, both in captivity and in the wild, to end abuse and avoid extinction.

Tashirojima

"Cat Island"

Lying just off the coast of the Oshika Peninsula, Tashirojima is a small island that is dominated by furry, four-legged felines. Here, the stray cats far outnumber the humans who call this their home. Surrounded by the azure waters of the mighty Pacific, Japan's Cat Island was once home to about a thousand humans, however, over time, the population has dwindled down to a mere hundred. The enormous population of cats hearkens back to the Edo era, and a belief which suggests that feeding cats is a sure-fire way to attract prosperity. An ode to this belief is Neko-jinja, a humble cat shrine which lies nestled in the island's very heart. Having captured the imagination of the world at large, Tashirojima is often featured in media and is one of the best-kept cat islands of the country.

Cafe Neko

"Feline Friendly Cafe"

Inspired by a Japanese culture, this is the first of its kind in Vienna. Cafe Neko which means cat cafe in Japanese opened its doors in 2012. The five resident felines have their own 'cat furniture' and are friendly enough to allow guests to pet them. The decor is designed keeping these agile creatures in mind complete with scratch posts, climbing walls and more. Drink coffee from traditional Viennese roasters along with homemade cakes or you can also order yourself some Japanese tea.

Cat Town Café

"Coffee & Kitties"

The first of its kind to be opened in the United States, Oakland's Cat Town Cafe is a truly heartwarming experience. Part cafe and part cat shelter, this cafe is run by the non-profit Cat Town Oakland, which is dedicated to finding foster and forever homes for homeless cats in and around the Oakland area. The cafe consists of two different areas separated by a dividing wall: the cafe proper, where patrons can order coffee, espresso drinks, tea, and pastries, and the cat zone where all of the adoptable cats are free-roaming. Visitors to the cafe can take their drinks into the cat zone and spend up to an hour petting, playing with, and getting to know all of the cafe's feline residents. Reservations are highly recommended, as Cat Town Cafe is extremely popular, and can be made online. A $10 donation, which goes towards providing food, shelter, and care for the cats, is required for all patrons who make a reservation. Free-of-charge walk-ins are also available at the cafe, but are only available as time and space permits.

The Cat House

"Haven for Jungle Cats"

A Center for feline breeding and research, The Cat House protects 70 endangered feline species from extinction. Visitors can see these animals from a distance of 5 feet (1.5 meters). Some of these include leopards, tigers, jaguars, cougars, Canadian lynx, Bobcat, Margay and Ocelot, among many others. The Cat Center does well to preserve the future of these animals and give them a home where they can breed, as well allow research on all of these 19 species. The institute is run entirely on public funds. For all those who love big wild cats, a visit to The Cat House is a must.

The Cat Café

"Coffee & Cats"

If drinking good coffee and enjoying the company of cats are two separate activities that sound exciting, The Cat Café offers both to customers. High quality coffee from West Coast Coffee Roasters and Cafe Virtuoso is served here in the company of furry felines who are waiting to be pet. The cats in the playpen are friendly and always active and are also put up for adoption to give them new homes in willful customers' homes.

KattenKabinet

"Feline Attraction"

Situated in a beautiful structure on the scenic Herengracht canal, KattenKabinet is home to a rather quirky art assemblage whose theme is centered around cats. The museum was set up in 1990 as a mark of tribute to John Piermont Morgan, a red cat who stayed here between the years 1966 and 1983. The museum houses an extensive collection of photos, sculptures, posters and paintings of cats. Art works by Sal Meijer, Pablo Picasso and other noted artists also grace the museum walls. Laminated boards inside the museum provide details about each of the 'cat-themed' artworks.

Cat Tales Zoological Park

"Can't Be Missed"

Founded in 1991, Cat Tales Zoological Park can't be missed if you're in the area. The Cat Tales Zoological Park stays true to its name and features rescued felines, including lions, tigers, pumas, bobcats and leopards. However, the park is home to more than just felines, such as bears and snakes. You can go on a guided tour or explore the park on your own. The admission is reasonable and you can go on a "Big Cat Adventure" where you hand feed a lion or tiger behind a barrier fence with the help of a zookeeper. The park is fun for the whole family.

KitTea

"Cafe and Cat Lounge"

Enjoy bottomless cups of tea as you pet, play and socialize with KitTea's adorable cats, all of whom are up for adoption. The cafe is the first of its kind in San Francisco, and is a haven for all those who find themselves unable to resist a friendly feline. Visits to the cat lounge last up to an hour and incur a fee that includes limitless tea refills. You can also enjoy sandwiches, cakes and other snacks from the cafe menu as you play. A separate tea-room offers a view of the cat lounge, where you can enjoy the varied cafe selection while watching the cats do their thing. KitTea also works alongside Give Me Shelter, a local cat rescue, to help these adorable cats find a permanent home.
