Seamus McCaffrey's Irish Pub and Restaurant

"County Galway in Phoenix"

Seamus McCaffrey's Irish Pub and Restaurant is downtown Phoenix's Irish Pub. It offers a wonderful selection of imported beers, including a large selection of Irish whiskey. On the menu, most of the dishes resemble those from the Emerald Isle, albeit with an American twist. For breakfast, the traditional Irish one is served on Sunday mornings and during the week, live traditional music is also a featured attraction.

Caffe Sarajevo

"True-Blue Bosnian"

As implied by its name, this cafe specializes in Bosnian cuisine. What's not so obvious from the outside is that within the tiny cafe-style restaurant you'll find a bit of Bosnia resting comfortably with no hint of pretense. The interiors are decorated so that you feel like you're dining in the old square of some village in Eastern Europe. The menu is expectedly chock full of authentic favorites like gyros, cevapi and the sweet baklava, served to perfection by the delightful owner. Drop by for a taste of Bosnian food and hospitality.

Haus Murphy's

"Genuine Glendale German"

This bar serves up genuine German cuisine. Remember the movie Murphy's Romance? They have the bar from that film at this cute little downtown Glendale cafe. Choose from a full selection of schnitzels, sauerbraten, and wursts, plus a comforting German-style potato salad and what local food critics have said is the best strudel in town. Most dinner entrees, beers and wines are quite reasonably priced. Also if you find yourself here during Oktoberfest, the restaurant brings in an authentic German band each year that is actually from Bavaria.
