Balthazar Restaurant

"Una Brasserie Especial"

Balthazar es una recreación de una brasserie francesa típica: fuerte, ruidosa y emocionante. El espacio está dominado por unas banquetas de cuero rojo y espejos retro que le dan una apariencia más espaciosa. El restaurante es una creación de Keith McNally, quien también es dueño de Pastis, ubicado en el Meatpacking District. Ofrece desayuno, brunch, almuerzo y cena, así como también un menú especial para postres, vinos y "after hours". Encontrarán delicias como el churrasco asado de cordero, pato confitado y tocino crujiente Berkshire. El brunch de los domingos es especialmente popular. Para grupos que excedan los 12 integrantes se ofrece un menú fijo especial.

Lafayette

"French Luxury"

Lafayette, owned by Andrew Carmellini, is a quaint French restaurant which whips up some delightful treats for breakfast, brunch, lunch and dinner. The cozy and artfully furnished interior is adorned in classy and attractive decor, and the establishment boasts a concept and menu derived from the tradition and culture of several parts of France, with the ingenious chefs creating some absolutely astounding variations of classic French cuisine. Sample delights like lemon pancakes, almond croissants, shrimp cocktail, salads, sandwiches, sunchoke agnolotti, bistro steal, grilled local trout, and dry aged duck among others. In addition, they have a bakery and desserts section along with an extensive drinks and wine list. The well lit interiors of the bistro-style joint are designed by Roman and Williams. The Lafayette proves to be a statement restaurant where the rich and famous hob-nob often.

Buvette

"French Style Bistro"

A lovely French-style bistro, Buvette effortlessly blends vintage with modern chic. Featuring a delightfully rustic but trendy vibe, the little bistro is a popular local spot for an elegant breakfast, light lunch or after work drink. The menu stays close to its bistro theme, serving up a nice array of retro classics like the mouth-watering selection of baked delights from flaky croissants perfect for a quick breakfast to more substantial steak tartare, ratatouille and coq au vin. A lovely spot for a quiet evening out and a nice place to enjoy the perfect glass of French wine accompanied by one of the delicious small eats, in quaint little jars and bowls, meant to be shared. Round off the evening with a slice of melt-in-the-mouth tarte tatin, for a truly satisfying experience. Since they do not accept reservations, expect a wait on weekends.

French Louie

"À La Française"

French Louie offers minimalist interiors where the focus is on the gourmet food and wine. It has an elongated dining room with stark white walls, one of which features wall art depicting conifers. Guests can start their meal with appetizers such as oysters, smoked sardines and lobster cocktail. This is followed by entrees like sugar snap pea salad, a blend of peas, avocados, and basil, and mains such as lamb Navarin with baby turnips. The desserts include lime meringue tart and profiteroles served with pistachio ice cream. In the traditional French style, the meal ends with cheese from regions like Pyrénées and Normandy, accompanied by a selection of cognacs and sherries.

Bacchus Bistro

"Roman God of Wine"

Located on Atlantic Avenue, Bacchus Bistro is a fine French feast. Inside is fairly rustic, and there is an outdoor area that is great in the summertime. Francophones should be delighted by the vibe and the food. Escargot and a great goat-cheese dish start things off right. Solid entree choices include boeuf bourguignon and carré d'agneau. The wine selection is extensive. Another option includes a prix-fixe menu, and weekend brunch is a treat. The staff are very attentive and friendly, definitely worth a trek to Brooklyn.

La Grenouille

"Superior Classic French Restaurant"

Although this quintessential Manhattan French restaurant may be pricey, La Grenouille is a thoroughly romantic place to enjoy a memorable meal. It has long been known for its spectacular floral displays, great food, and good service. The prix fixe dinner combined with wine makes for an excellent combination. Dishes can be ordered a la carte as well, these include delicacies such as frogs' legs sauteed with garlic and tomato compote and filet mignon with potato and onion crisps. Do not forget to cap the meal with some indulgent desserts.

Le Bernardin

"Pescado Divino"

Los propietarios Maguy y Gilbert LeCoze llegaron a Nueva York desde París en 1986 para establecer este elegante restaurante con el único propósito de cocinar y preparar platos de pescado. En ese momento, pocos podrían haber pronosticado su increíble éxito, pero desde entonces, el restaurante ha recibido las calificaciones más altas por críticos gastronómicos año tras año. Incluso cuando Gilbert murió y lo suplantó el chef Eric Ripert, el amor y la dedicación con la que cada plato fue preparado siguió siendo igual. Aunque es excesivamente caro, no hay nada que se le parezca a este moderno restaurante francés.

Benoit

"Elegant French Bistro"

World-renowned chef Alain Ducasse brings the spirit of a French bistro to New York at Benoit. Since its opening, Benoit has charmed and enticed diners with its bright and tasteful decor, adorned with charming small touches, and, of course, its fantastic food. The cuisine at Benoit is essentially classic French, featuring dishes like the puff-pastry encased salmon served with a tarragon and shallot sauce, and the perfectly roasted chicken accompanied by roasted garlic cloves and French fries. For night owls, there is a late-night menu available, and the restaurant also boasts an excellent wine list.

La Bonne Soupe

"Cozy Eatery where Soups Abound"

Food lovers should take stock of this casual French Midtown charmer, which offers a warm and comfortable setting and seasonal outdoor dining. Exceptional soups like mushroom, lamb with barley, and cream of vegetables attract soup lovers from all over. For those in the mood for other dishes, the restaurant also serves quiche, omelets, fondues, and salads. So when you are tired from shopping on Fifth Avenue or visiting the nearby Museum of Modern Art, settle down for lunch or dinner.

Jean Georges

"Simplemente Esplendido"

El impecable restaurante contemporáneo francés de Jean-Georges Vongerichten, situado en la esquina sudoeste de Parque Central en el Trump International Hotel, ofrece comida francesa con Pan-Asian y además influencias modernas. El brillante y moderno espacio complementa fenomenal platos como costra de hierbas y cordero salteado y crujiente ancas de rana. Camareros vestidos de negro ofrecen un perfecto servicio. Otra opción es Nougatine, ligeramente menos formal y menos costoso en frente.

Daniel

"Sólo lo Mejor"

Este restaurante francés, propiedad del chef Daniel Boulud, es considerado por algunos como la mejor experiencia gastronómica en la ciudad. Tanto la preparación como la presentación de la comida son excepcionales, y la decoración del Renacimiento italiano, la carta de vinos y el personal experimentado son dignos de mención. El menú de precio fijo, que incluye un aperitivo, un plato principal y postre puede ser algo costoso para muchos, pero el almuerzo es más razonable y se mantiene un ambiente bastante informal.

Bar Boulud

"Exquisite NYC Bar"

Bar Boulud is a sophisticated restaurant and wine bar catering to an upscale crowd in New York. Established by the famous chef Daniel Boulud, Bar Boulud serves a variety of great wines from Burgundy and the Rhone Valley. The sommelier here is knowledgeable and recommends you the right wine to complement your meal. Apart from the great wines, the delicious French food served is immensely popular among its patrons. Some of the famous dishes served here include tagine d' agneu and the compote de joue de boeuf. Definitely a place to experience for its food and the exquisite wine collection.
