Fisherman's Plate

"Chinese Seafood and More"

Fisherman's Plate is a no-frills Chinese restaurant which specializes in Taiwanese food and seafood items. At first glance, the restaurant, with its plastic chairs and absence of any kind of decor seems nothing special. The real value of the eatery is experienced the minute you dig into their delicious, authentic dishes. Highly acclaimed by regular diners and critics alike, the restaurant serves scrumptious Taiwanese dishes like chili crab, garlic prawns, steamed fish and steak served with black bean sauce. You can sip on some local or Asian beers along with your food or bring your own choice of alcohol to complement the meal. If you are looking for authenticity and taste, this is the place to come to.

Red Chamber

"Mandarin Delicacies"

Red Chamber is a Chinese restaurant which specializes in spicy Mandarin specialties. With dim lighting, dark wood furniture, minimalist decor and cozy tables for two, the restaurant is a nice option for a date. Begin the meal with their Classic Hot and Sour Soup and go on to try perfectly-spiced appetizers like pork dumplings and spicy seaweed salad. For your main course, you could try out some of the chef's specialties which include options like Peking duck, Stir Fried Lamb with Cumin Garlic and Chili and Ma Po Tofu. The menu also has a wide variety of delicious vegetarian dishes.
