CIAO! Deli & Pizzeria

"Ciao Down"

This small and unassuming family-run deli may not seem like much from the outside, but it has won several "best of" awards for its delicious, quality pizzas. Ciao is a great Italian deli, serving up delicious items like their signature Italian subs and hoagies, or they allow you to create your own sub as well. Aside from the traditional deli offerings, Ciao also offers up delicious pasta dishes, giant calzones and of course, the award winning pizza. Round out your meal with an order of their famous garlic knots, one of their several salad options or one of their homemade desserts. The weekday lunch specials are a great value.

Hollingshead's

"Drink Up"

The selection of beer here is mind boggling— hundreds of bottled selections and about 15 beers on tap will satisfy the most finicky of beer drinkers. This is also a deli serving sandwiches and other typical deli fare like potato salad and other goodies. If you are on a diet, this place is not for you, but if you just want delicious beer and food, loosen your belt and prepare to fill up.

"Not Your Ordinary Waffle"

For those times you can't decide between sweet and savory, Bruxie has you covered. Bruxie specializes in, as one might suspect, "Bruxies" which are Belgian-style waffles turned into sandwiches. Diners can choose to go the sweet route with Nutella and banana, S'Mores or Creme Brulee Bruxies. For a more savory route, Bruxies includes combinations like the Bruxie burger, green eggs and ham Bruxie or the hot pastrami Bruxie. Round out your meal with some waffle-cut fries or even go authentic and get a straight-up traditional Belgian waffle.
