Markusplatz

"Weltberühmter Piazza"

Piazza San Marco ist möglicherweise Venedigs berühmtester Piazza. Was wie ein Rechteck aussieht ist tatsächlich ein Trapez und wenn man die Basilika hinaufschaut dann sieht der Platz enorm aus, obwohl er nur 175 Meter lang ist. An beiden Seiten vom Piazza liegt das Procuratie Vecchie, welches die Anwälte von San Marco beherbergte. Das Zentrum vom Piazza besteht aus der ikonischen Basilica di San Marco. Das älteste dieser Gebäude (vermutlich von Codussi gebaut) liegt an der linken Seite wenn man der Basilika gegenübersteht; Bladassare Longhena baute diejenigen auf der rechten Seite im Jahr 1640. Die neuesten Gebäude, von Napoleon 1810 in Auftrag gegeben, liegen dahinter. Es ist wahrlich ein Wunder und der Piazza San Marco eignet sich für einen brillanten Besuch.

Saint Mark's Basilica

"World-Famous Basilica"

Richly adorned with gold mosaics, intricate carvings and undulating marble arches, Saint Mark's Basilica is a glorious example of Byzantine architecture, crested by a series of glistening domes. The basilica was originally built in the 9th Century to house the mortal remains of Saint Mark. Destroyed in 932 CE, the church was later rebuilt to a more opulent design and served as the Doge's chapel until 1807 when it replaced the Basilica di San Pietro in Castello as the cathedral of the Archdiocese. Although the architectural plan of the church has remained largely unchanged since the 12th Century, generous adornments were added over the years, creating one of Italy's most impressive collections of ecclesiastical art. Inside, the ceilings are a sea of gold mosaics, glimmering above lavish sculptures and intriguing architectural details. One of Venice's most iconic structures, the Saint Mark's Basilica sits amid Piazza San Marco at one end of the Grand Canal.

Zattere Promenade

"Venetian Waterside Beauty"

Venice is the land of canals and a trip to this breathtaking city is never complete without a visit to its myriad waterfronts. While in this island city, head to its southern tip in the Dorsoduro neighborhood where you will come across the Zattere Promenade. This seafront once served as a quay and was active in the trade of timber. Sauntering along this walkway, visitors are flanked by the deep blue waters on one side and magnificent Venetian buildings, exhibiting 15th and 16th century architecture, on the other. Whether you are ambling in solitude and soaking in the tranquility of the spot, strolling with family or friends, or walking hand in hand with a loved one, this promenade will ensure a magical experience for all.

Giardini della Biennale

"Garden from the Napoleonic Era"

Host of the famous Venice Biennale Art Festival; Giardini della Biennale is a vast parkland located in the east of Venice. These gardens were created in the Napoleonic era by draining marsh land and today the garden consists of 30 permanent pavilions which are assigned to various countries. During the Venice Biennale Art Festival these pavilions are used by those particular countries for showcasing performances. The garden is worth a visit, even in the absence of the festival, for its winding paths, canopy of trees, and cute cats that run around.

Lido di Venezia

"Perfect for a Holiday"

The Lido di Venezia is a pristine sandbar that has become a thriving tourist destination, thanks to its accessibility from mainland Venice. One of the most photographed and talked about places in Venice, this island is not only famous for its panoramic views and beautiful summer beaches but also home to Venice Film Festival. Most of these beaches are private and often visited by international celebrities from diverse fields. The gorgeous sandbar, stretching luxuriously to almost 11 kilometers (6.83 miles), has featured exclusively as the location in Thomas Mann's Death in Venice.
