8oz Burger & Company

"Whisky & Burger"

8oz Burger & Company is a gourmet burger joint with a difference! It uses organic brioche in all its buns, while the beef is of grass-fed cattle who are raised strictly on a natural diet. It also has a few gluten-free, vegetarian and vegan options on the menu. One of the most recommended options is the The Madison with fillings like herb aioli, thyme-infused truffle salt, ale roasted mushrooms, charred onions, watercress and cave aged Gruyère cheese. You can also savor items such as Pork Belly Kimchi, Fillet of Fish, Turkey Poutine and Wild Boar. The bar menu boasts 50 whiskey varieties, craft cocktails and draft beers.

Lunchbox Laboratory

"Gourmet Burger Joint"

If your craving a burger, the Lunchbox Laboratory may be a good place to check out. With a selection of tasty appetizers and their house-special burgers, this is not a place to come to if you're on a diet. Bright and colorful, the place has a distinctive décor featuring the quirky lunch-boxes they're named after. Especially popular are the Sloppy Joe and Burger of the Gods. Don't miss out on their boozy milk-shakes, a special treat for the grown-ups. The Lunchbox Laboratory is a busy modern burger joint, offering up gourmet burgers with ingredients like blue cheese and truffle shavings; so they aren't cheap.

The Swinery

"Traditional Meat Products"

The Swinery, a sustainable eatery and food shop, is extremely popular among meat-lovers in West Seattle. Focusing on sustainability, the shop sources its product from less than 300 miles (482 kilometers) away, buying from small local organic farmers. Using traditional techniques, this shop prides itself on using the whole animal and providing customers with hard to find cuts of meat. Find delicious steaks, sausages, pork chops and more to bring home for dinner or if you're not in the mood to cook, order one of their mouth-watering burgers or sandwiches.

Uneeda Burger

"Local Burger Joint"

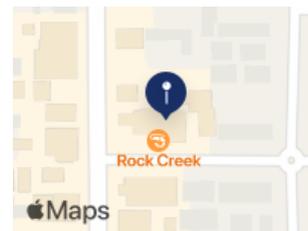

Uneeda Burger is a distinctive burger shack with a laid-back vibe. The cuisine includes burgers, sandwiches and shakes. The signature options from the menu featuring over a third of a pound of meat with generous toppings such as shallots, gruyere cheese, tempura lemons, charred peppers and onions. The ice-cream shakes and floats are preferred by many, though there is a decent wine list and few craft beers to complement your meal. Check website for details.

Katsu Burger

"Japanese Burgers"

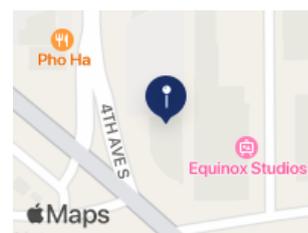

Katsu Burger, known for their Japanese-inspired American food, is a Georgetown favorite. The no-frills eatery has garnered rave reviews for their original burgers, sides, and drinks. The restaurant sets itself apart from the usual burger joints not just for the originality of the menu, but also the commitment to serving only all-natural meats sourced from the Pacific Northwest. Their iconic burgers are deep fried to perfection, so it's best to leave your diet at home. Favorites include the Ninja Deluxe, Godzilla Attack, and Wabi Wasabi. The infamous Mt. Fuji isn't for the faint of heart and features beef, pork, and chicken, American, Pepper Jack, and Cheddar cheeses, fried egg, bacon, wasabi, and Tonkatsu sauce. A side portion of their unique Nori fries are the perfect accompaniment to any meal and is perfectly washed down with a green tea milkshake or a kinako and black sesame milkshake.

Red Mill Burgers

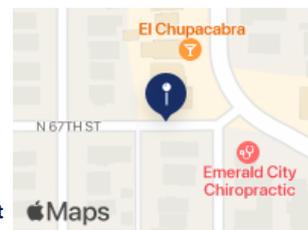

"Darn Good Burgers"

Red Robin isn't the only place to get gourmet burgers in the Pacific Northwest. This similarly named burger joint has been voted "Best Burger" by the readers of the Seattle Weekly. The reasons are obvious, big juicy patties, fresh buns and crisp lettuce, not to mention fair prices. At this chic Red Mill Burgers joint, try the rich Bacon Deluxe with Cheese, the Veggie Burger or the Chicken Burger. The thick milkshakes and malts are nothing to sneer at either.

Loretta's Northwester

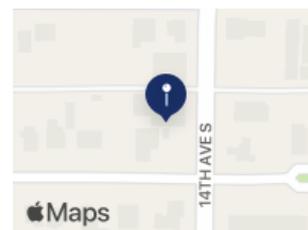

"Burgers and Beer"

A bar with plenty of loud background music and a hip crowd, the burgers served here are the true highlight. Delicious might be an understatement for the menu which features mouth-watering options like the deluxe cheese burger, tavern burger, pork tenderloin, steak sandwich and more. The drinks are chilled and together the combination of liquor and food make for a great time. The venue leans towards the dive bar label with dim lighting and a loud crowd, though this very fact adds to the appeal of the place.

Burgermaster

"Family Burger Joint"

First opened in 1952 by Phil Jensen in the University of Washington area, Burgermaster has become a Seattle fixture over the years. Today the restaurant is still owned and operated by the Jensen family and has five locations in the greater Seattle area. Voted best burger, Burgermaster crafts all its cuisine using only fresh, quality ingredients like antibiotic and hormone free beef. This Aurora location features a traditional menu with burgers, shakes and fries as well as some unique dishes like their grilled crab and Swiss on sourdough.
