Club Chasse et Peche

"Fine Dining at this Meat-Eaters Paradise"

Great ambiance and wonderful service at this intimate setting in Old Montreal. The caramelized scallops are delicious, while the smoked lamb, and beets served with goat cheese are all great for starters. The Gaspé char on roasted cauliflower bed is another good choice, also caramelized one of the secrets of this haute-cuisine spot. A large selection of French and Italian wines are also available.

Maison Publique

"Delicious Eats & Flavorsome Pours"

Maison Publique is a collaborative project between world-renowned celebrity chef Jamie Oliver and Derek Dammann. Opened in 2012, this gastropub is not only a culinary hotspot but also a popular haunt to sip on Quebec beers and domestic wines. Their menu is chef-driven and changes according to the chef's inclinations. The dishes here are made from scratch using fresh local ingredients, which lends a wonderful earthiness to its flavors. The Saumon Cru 'Amandine', Maiale Tonnato, and the Magret De Canard are some of the specialties from the menu.
