Pâtisserie Harmonie

"Asian Bakery & Dessert Spot"

Pâtisserie Harmonie is a far cry from your run-of-the-mill bakeries. Located on Rue de la Gauchetière, in Chinatown, the vibrant bakery and dessert place offers a wide range of Asian desserts and baked goodies. With an impressive menu of over 50 dessert preparations, the bakery offers several cakes, Asian pastries, sweetmeats and bakery items that are quite rare to find in Montreal. Apart from local hits such as hokkaido and sesame balls, among others, they also serve quite a selection of bubble teas and specialty beverages.

Juliette et Chocolat

"Chocolate Heaven on Earth"

Juliette et Chocolat is the creation of a genius master chocolatier named Juliette. This is more than just a restaurant or a coffee shop. It is a place to indulge in rich, inventive and scrumptious chocolate concoctions in a cozy environment. From old-fashioned hot chocolate to classic desserts with a twist such as the popular white chocolate coconut brownie, their decadent menu allows customers to enjoy cocoa in every possible way. A great spot for chocolate lovers, Juliette's menu also offers tasty lunch options such as the goat cheese crepe and the Mexican salad with chocolate chicken. Affordable and original, it is the perfect spot to enjoy an afternoon snack or satisfy a late-night craving.

Ripples

"Legendary Ice Cream"

Owned and operated by a guy who started making ice cream by hand, this tiny hole-in-the wall serves the city's best vanilla, or so says the Montreal Gazette's poll. There isn't anywhere to sit, so during warm summer evenings crowds get their cones, sundaes or milkshakes and go for a stroll up and down the Boulevard St-Laurent. It is one of dozens of ice cream and gelato joints in the area, but this one definitely outshines the others. Cash only.

Patrice Pâtisier

"Dessert Like Never Before"

Located on the Notre-Dame street west, it isn't difficult to locate Patrice Pâtisier, simply follow the aromatic trails of baked goodies and you should be home! At Patrice Pâtisier you can see the chefs creating magic with flour and sugar and they end up giving a gourmet touch to everyday, bakery items. Albeit pricier than others on the block, every dish served here is worth the money spent. Patrice Pâtisier also has a distinctive lunch menu, the items on which validate the chef's talent for savory dishes as well.

Kem CoBa

"Colorful and Tempting"

A small place painted in bright green and with a long queue outside easily catches eyes of the people. Kem CoBa is one of the most loved and favorite ice cream parlors of Montreal. This popular ice cream center has been offering homemade ice creams of some common and unusual flavors. Not only this, they also have sorbets and cheesecakes which are, also, loved by all the locals and visitors. This small joint has to be there in your list if you plan to visit Montreal.

D'Une Glace à l'Autre

"Home of Homemade Ice Cream"

Bernard Street in the Mile End is full of places to please you, and D'Une Glace à l'Autre is no exception. Anyway, it's hard to go wrong with ice cream. They serve a brand called Coaticook that boasts of flavors like maple sugar and moka caramel. But the special thing about this place is that their gelato is homemade. Ask your ice cream service representative to point them out: flavors include Nutella, rum and raisin, cookie dough, raspberry, cheesecake and blueberry, pistachio, green tea, and pear. If reading this has awoken your cravings, you now know where to go. - Marvin Wayne
