Le Mal Necessaire

"Follow the Green Pineapple"

The devil is in the details and drinks menu at this modern tiki bar, whose name means "necessary evil." Identifiable by a neon pineapple sign at street-level, the bar is located a bit underground. Observant visitors will notice the beautiful light fixtures, brick floors, and Bauhaus-inspired benches and booths. The menu is full of standard tiki drinks with creative twists, and classics served in coconut shells. Guests can order food well into the evening from the Chinese restaurant next door.

Le Lab

"Mixology at its Finest"

If you're looking for a bar where mixology is key, then Le Lab is the place to be! With rows and rows of liquor decorating the bar, it looks more like the home of a mad scientist than a cocktail pantry. To add to the dark yet inviting interior design, all bar tenders are flare tenders, throwing in tricks as they mix your favorite cocktail. Each bar tender and server is said to know how to make any sort of drink, so if you can't decide on a drink on their extensive menu, ask for a recommendation! Dark velvet curtains also add to the interior, so at times from the outside, the bar can look quite dark and perhaps even closed. However, do not hesitate, try the door and if they are open, you are sure to have a great time!
