

"Best Photography in Toronto"

Created By: Cityseeker

📍 2 Locations Bookmarked

📷 by Secondarywaltz ©

Ryerson Image Centre

"A World-Class Photographic Gallery"

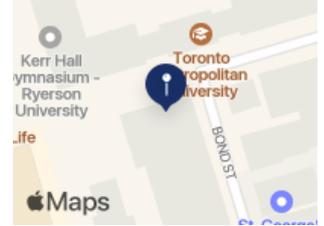

A part of Ryerson University, the Ryerson Image Centre is an excellent photographic gallery as well as a research and education center. The center conducts major research in photography and hosts various workshops, exhibitions, lectures and discussions. This state-of-the-art gallery is open to works of any photographer, be it a budding student photographer or a professional artist. Apart from hosting temporary exhibitions, the gallery is home to a vast archival collection of close to 300,000 prints in photojournalism and fine art. Walk in here to discover learn about various aspects of photography.

📞 +1 416 979 5164

🌐 www.ryerson.ca/ric/

✉ ric@ryerson.ca

📍 33 Gould Street, Ryerson University, Toronto ON

📷 by gagnonm1993 ©

Gallery 44 Centre for Contemporary Photography

"Contemporary Photography"

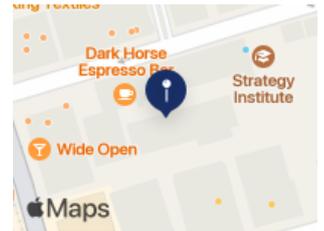

Another of the numerous art groups found in the 401 Building at Richmond Street West, this gallery is one of the few dedicated strictly to the advancement of photography as an art form. In existence since 1979, the not-for-profit space not only offers exhibitions and showings but also provides darkroom and production facilities. Also, workshops, educational programs and tours of various galleries in the city are available for those interested in pursuing a career in photographic art.

📞 +1 416 979 3941

🌐 www.gallery44.org

✉ info@gallery44.org

📍 401 Richmond Street West, Suite 120, Toronto ON

JOIN US AT:

cityseeker.com