Ved Stranden 10

"Wine Paradise"

Taking its name from the street it occupies, Ved Stranden 10 houses one of the city's best collection of wines. The collection is heavy on labels from Germany, Austria and France with a little choice from other regions as well like Spain, Portugal and Italy. Biodynamic wines are a specialty, and connoisseurs won't be disappointed with the selection. A small selection of delicious light bites accompanies your drinks. The cozy interiors dressed in white, receive ample light throughout the day. Modern low-hanging lanterns over tables add a nice touch to the space. You can also take a bottle home from the wine shop. Check website for more.

Balthazar

"Champagne Paradise"

One of the first champagne bars to open in the country, Balthazar, located within the Hotel D'Angleterre is an extremely elegant affair. Blacks engulfs everything in sight from the sleek long bar and sumptuous chairs to the wall paneling against the white walls. The purple banquettes by the windows are the only break in the black and white theme. Ornate classical chandeliers add to the refined decor. With no less than 160 bottles on offer, the champagne selection at Balthazar is truly extensive and enough to satisfy even the most discerning connoisseur. Apart from this, you can enjoy unique champagne cocktails as well. Accompanying your spirits is a choice of light bites that includes caviar. DJs spin lively tunes on Fridays. Check website for more.

Hviids Vinstue

"Oldest Wine Bar"

Copenhagen's oldest wine bar, this place was established in 1723. There is a strict no-music policy, which leaves room for an impressive, mature atmosphere created by the vintage crowd and well preserved rooms. It is situated centrally on Kongens Nytorv. Old gents serve beer and wine with hoarse comments popular with the ladies. There is no kitchen, but this could be the place that serves the best homemade gløgg (mulled wine) in Copenhagen at Christmastime.

Kiin Kiin

"Trendy Spot"

Kiin Kiin offers diners a chance to indulge in various dishes that titillate their senses in a delightful ambiance. This cafe-restaurant also features a wine bar that houses wines from all over the world. The wine connoisseurs would be mighty pleased with this collection. Takeaway is an option, so if you don't have the time for a sit-down dinner, stop by and pick up your parcel. Kiin Kiin in Nørrebro, Copenhagen, is one of the world's very few Thai restaurants with a Michelin star. The owners' take on Thai food is present-day and urbane, with a 7-course menu. The comfy and contemporary Thai interior and reasonable prices that don't burn a hole in your pocket will give you a fair idea of why Copenhagen is abuzz with chatter about this, the only Micheline star Thai restaurant in Denmark and perhaps the most popular restaurant of all in the city.
