

"Best Chinese in Rio de Janeiro"

Created by: Cityseeker

📍 2 Locations Bookmarked

📷 by "Vinicius Benedit on Unsplash" on Unsplash ©

Miako

"Truly Traditional Japanese"

One of the oldest Japanese restaurants in Rio, Miako has been serving up delicious dishes since 1972. Located at the heart of Rio's Japanese and Chinese community in Botafogo, the restaurant's menus come in both Japanese and Portuguese. Sushi and noodle dishes are all very good here, and the lunchtime Japan Fest allows diners to choose from over 45 options, among them sashimi, sushi and spring rolls. The à la carte choices feature steamed dim sum, crispy vegetables and plenty of chicken dishes, all of which can be enjoyed among décor and furnishings typical of the far east.

☎ +55 21 2552 7847

✉ miako@terra.com.br

📍 Rua Farani 20, Rio de Janeiro

📷 by Wpcpey ©

Mr. Lam

"Sophisticated Chinese Cuisine"

Until the arrival of Mr. Lam in Lagoa, Chinese food in Rio had long been associated with low-budget joints serving up greasy noodles. This plush spot has changed all that. The kitchen is lead by Mr. Lam himself, who splits his time between here and his other job as head chef of Mr. Chow, New York. Top-notch Peking cuisine is on the menu here, and the nighttime views of the illuminated Christ Statue from the top floor are spectacular. The restaurant attracts a wealthy clientele that includes soap stars and footballers, so dress to impress if you want to feel comfortable.

☎ +55 21 2286 6661

🌐 www.mrlam.com.br

✉ contato@mrlam.com.br

📍 Rua Maria Angélica, 21, Lagoa, Rio de Janeiro

JOIN US AT:
cityseeker.com