Glenelg Golf Club

"Golfing Paradise"

Built on a sandy marsh near the coast, the Glenelg Golf Club was founded in 1927. Today, with its pristine greens, gently undulating fairways and teasing sand traps, the links offers truly challenging golf with a great deal of variety. Not surprisingly, many major amateur championships are played here. The large, modern clubhouse yields splendid views across the links and makes a first-class dining and function facility. An additional attraction of this club is its proximity to the airport, city and beach.

Royal Adelaide Golf Club

"Adelaide's Premier Golf Course"

Founded in 1892, the Adelaide Golf Club only acquired its 'Royal' status in 1923. The course has changed considerably over the years. Initially the location changed, several times, but now it is the character of this seaside links that continues to evolve. With cleverly contoured greens and yawning bunkers, the current course at Seaton is generally recognized as Adelaide's premier golfing venue. The Australian Open championship has been held here on nine occasions. Facilities at the club are available to corporate organizations.
