Mickey Mantle's Steakhouse

"Celebrity Favorite"

Mickey Mantle's, awarded many times since its opening, is definitely one of Oklahoma's places to see and be seen; it is frequently occupied by celebrities and other locals of note. The dining area is spacious and despite the huge floor area - 10,000 square feet - there is a feeling of seclusion and intimacy. The menu is short but each dish is prepared to its utmost potential. There is a full bar and Mickey Mantle's is also a fantastic restaurant to consider for your next private or corporate event. Reservations are recommended.

Cattlemen's Steakhouse

"Vintage Oklahoma Steakhouse"

Founded in 1910, Cattlemen's Steakhouse is one of the oldest restaurants in Oklahoma, and for more than 100 years it has served thousands of people. Diners will find roasted perfection on the menu, with options like brisket, burnt ends, full slabs of ribs, dry-aged steaks the list goes on-and-on. Besides the delicious beef, they are also famous for their lamb fries, a most unusual delicacy (be sure to ask your server to describe them to you). Additionally, if you are here for breakfast, Cattlemen's is the spot because the kitchen heaps generous portions onto plates perfect for sharing at super reasonable prices.

Jamil's Steakhouse

"Lebanese Dining"

There is no other place in Oklahoma City with quite as much style as this Lebanese steakhouse. As soon as you have been seated, the wait staff will bring you a complimentary tabouli salad with a relish tray and hummus tahini bean dip. After you have ordered from the excellent menu, you will be served complimentary cabbage rolls with smoked ribs and bologna. Your choice of steak, ribs or seafood will be served with a baked potato and hot bread.

Ranch Steakhouse

"A Formal Steakhouse"

This intimate dinner restaurant proves that a frontier decor can be authentic, but still elegant. The interior of the low-lit dining room is filled with sturdy western-style furnishings with rich leather accents. Appetizers include seafood and salad dishes and are delicious, but the real treat here is a steak cooked up by Chef Hobart. The Prime Fillet is a popular choice. After following up with coffee and dessert your visit will be worthwhile.

Boulevard Steakhouse

"Steak Out"

Boulevard Steakhouses is one of the best restaurants in the Oklahoma City area. The high class food like juicy steaks, oysters and lobster are complimented perfectly by the sophisticated and classic decor. In addition to the delicious food, customers rave about the fantastic service. Don't forget to take advantage of the martini bar.
