Victoria Park

"Away from the City"

Boasting an 18-hole golf course with a driving range, Victoria Park hosts Edmonton's oldest municipal course. You will also find a cricket pitch and horseshoe pit. There are plenty of places to have a picnic. The park is popular with cross-country skiers in winter. A great place to have some quiet time away from the noisy everyday city life.

Emily Murphy Park

"Winter Fun At The Park"

The Emily Murphy Park is known for its proximity to the North Saskatchewan River and its scenic beauty, but perhaps is the best-kept secret in the city for winter sports. Part of the enchanting River Valley, this beautiful park transforms into a winter wonderland, with snow-covered hillocks and plenty of space to go kick-sledding and tobogganing with family. During summer, the park throws open several trails that are used for biking or strolling. There is also a picnic site, a small boat launch system, and a children's playground built into the premises of the park.

William Hawrelak Park

"Outdoorsy Fun"

There is always something happening in William Hawrelak Park; the Edmonton Heritage Festival and the Symphony Under the Sky are held here. When there are no scheduled events or festivals, take a paddle-boat out on the man-made lake or enjoy it as an outdoor skating rink in the winter with heated changing facilities nearby. Spanning over an area of 168.03 acres (68 hectares), the park has good facilities for picnicking and as several well marked trails, ideal for biking, nature walks, and hiking. There's a playground and visitors can also enjoy volleyball here. Cross country skiing is another popular activity at the park.
