Trattoria del Passatore

"Flavors of Romagna"

This is a well-known restaurant that takes its name from a figure who is famous in Romagna's history. The trattoria is located in Sant'Arcangelo, a village which in itself deserves a visit. The decor is typical Romagna, there are interesting items hanging from the ceilings relating back to the history of the area. The tables are well-spaced inside the room, and the service is cordial and attentive. The food is very traditional. The Tagliatelle al Ragù are definitely worth trying as is the Grigliata di Carne both are actually the specialties of the house. The dishes are best washed down with a good

Sangiovese, but there also other wines to choose from.

Osteria La Sangiovesa

"A Little Gem"

This is a successful modern inn, housed in the ancient Palazzo Nadiani and well situated in a splendid village. There are several floors including a cellar carved out of several of the numerous grottoes to be found in the village of Tonino Guerra. This is the ideal place to try Piada (Italian flatbread) which hasn't been over-seasoned. As an accompaniment to the Piadina Salumi, traditional dishes (including pasta and fagioli) are cooked in the open-view kitchen. The extensive wine list offers wines from the region and elsewhere.
