Aardvark Pizza & Sub

"Midnight Munchies"

Visitors to Banff often follow up their mountain adventures with an expedition to one of the town's raucous bars, which can build a fearsome appetite. Luckily, this tiny pizza and sandwich place is open until the wee hours and is ready to satisfy late-night munchies. Aardvark's charmingly misspelled menu features pizza slices as well as submarines and chicken wings. Full size pizzas are also available, and there is free delivery anywhere in Banff. There is very little seating, so most people grab their slice to go.

Subway

"Healthy Sandwiches and more"

Be ready to line-up outside and wait for your turn to dine at the Subway restaurant. This famous fast-food joint is located in a touristy Banff Avenue and is known for the variety of sandwiches it offers. Visited by both, locals as well as tourists, you can dine on the greasy Meatball Sub or customize your own subway sandwich with a lot of ingredients to choose from.

BeaverTails

"BeaverTails in Banff"

The significance of Canada's national animal can be seen even in the food industry. BeaverTails, the highly popular pastry shop around Canada has been selling pastries stretched into the shape of a Beaver's tail since 1978. Favorite with locals and tourists alike for their huge range of toppings like Cinnamon & Sugar, Chocolate Hazelnut, Gelato, Maple Butter and various others, it's hard not to give into the temptation of trying one. What more, even Obama and Hilary Clinton are fans of this unique pastry shop and their delectable pastries.
