Giovanni's Ristorante

"Maternal Touch in Pasta Paradise"

Detroit almost lost an institution when a fire nearly destroyed this acclaimed restaurant, but the Truant family rebuilt and recaptured every detail of this cozy, gorgeous place known for its delicious homemade pastas. The mother and son owners keep alive a long tradition started by her brothers. The central Italian cuisine of San Marino includes elegant nightly specials, colorful raviolis, pasta fazole soup and a prize-winning selection of red wines. The desserts are also quite noteworthy. Relish an Italian feast at Giovanni's Ristorante.

La Dolce Vita

"Rustic Italian"

La Dole Vita is a little piece of Italy nestled in the heart of the scenic Palmer Park district. The restaurant's decor is reminiscent of an Italian trattoria, featuring chandeliers, flagstone walls and vintage accents. Patrons can even dine in the lovely patio area amidst floral gardens and live music. Rustic Italian cuisine is the highlight of the menu and brings together flavors from North and South in form of exquisite dishes. An excellent wine list and decadent desserts perfectly round off the dining experience. Reservations are recommended.

"Culinary Alchemy"

Due Venti was born of a deep appreciation for Northern Italian cuisine and the bountiful, varied harvest that each season brings. From the bread and pasta, to the marinades and sauces, everything is made by hand, in house, paying homage to the traditions of Northern Italian cuisine. The chef is akin to an alchemist who uses family recipes, modern techniques and seasonal ingredients to create a magical dining experience that will transport you to the Northern regions of Italy. The menu changes gradually with the seasons, and is intentionally influenced at any given time. Complimented by a fabulous wine list and a selection of breads, Due Venti offers a menu that is beautifully balanced. This balance between tradition and modernity is an underlying theme that carries through into the dining room and is reflected in a contemporary decor that is accentuated by original artwork created by the chef's grandmother. Intimate and inviting, the charming Due Venti promises sublime taste and refined beauty on every plate.
