Regal Bell Tower 20

"When there's nothing else to do..."

When in Florida, it's hard to get away from the sun-kissed beaches. But, should you get tired of bronzing on the sand, there are plenty of other entertainment opportunities. If you are in the southern part of the city, a trip to the open-air Bell Tower Shops mall is a must. Once you've picked your jaw off the floor and emptied out most of your wallet, a ticket to the latest release in this cinema would be in order. The usual crop of facilities that distinguish most Regal theaters from the others show up here as well, and put patrons at ease. Those with some additional time to kill can go to the in-house game room. Check the website for more details.

Marquee Cinemas - Coralwood 10

"Movies on the coast"

When surrounded by toasty beaches, it is hard to imagine how one would break away for a movie date. But this cinema in Cape Coral, seven miles from Fort Myers, manages to coax patrons into its cool interiors despite the lure of the great outdoors. Part of the Marquee Cinemas chain, it offers the latest productions that sizzle out of Hollywood on each of its 10 screens. Stadium seating and Digital Dolby Sound will take you into the plot and hold your attention for the whole duration of the film. Access for those with special needs is a big plus, making the venue all-inclusive. Call to ask about discounts and concessions, and book your tickets in advance—it's always better to tan on the beach than on a sidewalk!

Regal Gulf Coast Town Center Stadium 16

"Movies on the coast"

Like the other in the Regal chain, this cinema is accredited with the usual string of amenities and services. In addition, they boast of facilities for the disabled, listening devices and a smart help kiosk. Catch the latest Hollywood dude or chick on any of the 16 screens within, as you sit enraptured with fellow fans, a tub of popcorn and a soda for company. Those looking for more entertainment can avail of the party rooms on the premises. For more information on movie schedules and ticket prices, check the website.
