Claddagh Irish Pub

"Irish Pint"

The Irish atmosphere is the first thing you notice when you enter the Claddagh Irish Pub. This place offers traditional Irish grub from the fish and chips or the spinach artichoke, which can be served with a wide variety of beer. Straight from the Celtic highland, Claddagh Irish Pub is a place where you can let your hair down to the music and feel at ease. Cheers!

Slippery Noodle Inn

"Booze & Blues"

Known as Indiana's oldest bar, The Slippery Noodle Inn has seen its share of action. It's a hub for blues in the area, and it has been home to countless wild shows over the years. There's still live blues being played seven days a week. Being located in a great sports town, the Noodle makes itself available to sports fans as well, hosting many a celebration. Even when there's nothing going on, the place is still packed with happy diners and drinkers chowing down on the hearty menu, featuring everything from traditional bar fare to steaks and pastas, and drinking everything from martinis to micro brews.

Lockerbie Pub

"Friendly Neighborhood Dive Bar"

If you tire of the slightly higher end drinking establishments on the heavily trafficked Mass Ave strip, then venture a few blocks southeast and amble into the Lockerbie Pub. There's plenty of seating, billiards, and cold bottled beer. At the bar, a feisty bartender will be attending to a gaggle of talkative barflies whiling away the afternoon or evening spinning colorful yarns. There's a kitchen in back churning out greasy eats for when hunger calls. Big plate-glass windows let you watch the world go by out front as you enjoy a pint with the regulars.

Broad Ripple Brewpub

"Beers & Nosh"

In the heart of Broad Ripple, a few leisurely blocks from the main drag, Broad Ripple Brewpub is serving the people of Indianapolis. While many area watering holes are all about high-energy partying, this brewpub offers a more relaxed environment to sip your suds. The atmosphere is warm and comforting in the style of a classic English pub. Enjoy their homemade brews and maybe a plate of food from their extensive menu while watching sports above the bar or hanging out with friends. They're even kid friendly, with a full children's menu so the whole family can enjoy the pub. See website for beer details, food menu and more.
