Against The Grain Brewery & Smokehouse

"Louisville Pioneers"

Established in 2011, Against The Grain Brewery & Smokehouse is an ideal place to quaff microbrews and delicious food. Managed by a group of friends (Jerry, Adam, Sam and Andrew), this is the first traditional brewpub in the city. Against The Grain takes pride in brewing a vast variety of beers, from classic ales to flavor infusions alongside the hops are available here. Their menu features a delightful range of burgers, sandwiches, ribs and chicken that will complement your beer. Located on the grounds of Louisville Slugger Field, you can enjoy a drink and meal here before or after a game.

Grind Burger Kitchen

"Burger Delight"

In the backstreets of popular food joints, Grind Burger Kitchen is a little gem of an eatery. This award-winning restaurant was originally created as a food truck by Liz and Jesse Huot and was later established as a full-service burger restaurant. Create your own burger with their build-your-own-burger option. Many vegetarian and gluten-free options are also available. Few accolades won by the eatery are 15 Best New Burgers in the Country 2014 - Thrillist.com, Eater National - 30 Hot New Burgers and Louisville Magazine "Best of Louisville" - Food Truck (1st) 2014.

Mussel & Burger Bar

"Popular Burger and Seafood Joint"

With a bright casual yet stylish atmosphere and a laid back vibe, Mussel & Burger Bar is quite popular with the local crowd. From youngsters, working professionals to families, the restaurant has an eclectic crowd stopping by for a bite or an after-work drink. Colorful cocktails in mason jars share space with wooden platters piled with a juicy burger and crisp fries. The place can get crowded especially on weekends, so expect a wait. Popular items on the menu include Moules Basquaise, Spicy Calamari, Argentinean Burger, Truffled Fries and the C.E.O. Burger. If you love burgers and seafood, Mussel & Burger Bar is certainly worth a visit to satiate those cravings. They don't take reservations, so it's a good idea to get there early.
