Nagari Natak Mandali

"Cultural Display"

A very prominent cultural venue in the holy city, Nagari Natak Mandali is a class apart. The white imposing structure, with a majestic feel to it has classical music concerts as its major attraction. Varanasi, a city immersed in several classical traditions has no dearth of concerts and musical festivals. The place is one among the many venues that host the 'Sankat Mochan Festival', an annual musical feast of the famous Hanuman Temple.

Assi Ghat

"Awesome Assi"

This is the unofficial yet lionized home of long-term backpackers, researchers and students who have chosen to stay on for extended periods of time in Varanasi. The southernmost ghat on the long stretch of ghats, life at Assi is as indulgent as the water buffaloes who wallow around for hours on end in the Ganges. Despite its distance from the main burning ghats, travelers head here for a break from the intrusive touts, guides, fake holy men, beggars, boat men, masseurs and even children who participate with great fervor in the contrived chaos. Assi has a large Jewish community and this is reflected through the hotels and cafes with names such as Haifa and Yafah which serve up typically Middle Eastern dishes like hummus, falafel, baba ghanoush and kawwah (Arabic Coffee). Assi Ghat has been mentioned in the ancient Indian Vedic texts and commands the respect of Indian pilgrims too who arrive here in boats or on foot for a holy dip.

Holkar Bhavan

"Named After The Queen"

Holkar Bhavan was named for one of ancient India's most spirited warrior queens - Ahilyabai Holkar who took it upon her to rebuild temples and sanctuaries after seeing the tragic trail of destruction left behind by the Mughals who destroyed so much. Also known as Holkar House, Holkar Bhavan serves as an event venue for cultural functions and similar events that take place inside the Banares Hindu University. Interviews for lecturers who desire to teach at this prestigious institution are held here.
