Embassy Theatre

"Performances Galore"

A long history goes into the making of the 2,477 seater Embassy Theatre, formerly known as the Emboyd Theater. Built in 1928, running cinema shows were the theatre's only bread and butter then. But a couple of decades later, the dough was missing, and a temporary shut-down followed. In the nineties, the Embassy regained its lost glory, complete with shiny Spanish renaissance style interiors. Now movies are a no-no - instead traveling Broadway acts and renowned plays have taken over.

Foellinger-Freimann Botanical Conservatory

"Explore Botanical Treasures"

The Foellinger-Freimann Botanical Conservatory is the result of the efforts and endeavors of Fort Wayne City, Foellinger Foundation, Lincoln National Corporation and the Freimann Trust. The idea behind this conservatory was to give the city its very own botanical reserve. Managed and maintained by the Fort Wayne Parks and Recreation Department, every year students, tourists and locals come here to explore this treasure trove. Equipped with outdoor gardens, indoor gardens and modern facilities, it provides an insight into the world of botany. Apart from conducting regular classes, workshops and other events, it also has a rescue center specially designated for conservation and protection of endangered varieties of plants. This green sanctuary can also be rented for private events and celebrations.

Historic Fort Wayne

"A Trip to a Bygone Era"

Founded in the year 2004, the Historic Fort Wayne is a non-profit organization that manages the Old Fort in Fort Wayne. The goal of the organization is to educate the local community and visiting tourists, about Historic Fort Wayne, and its significance to the State of Indiana and America, during the 17th and 18th centuries through interactive programs and events. The best time to visit is on weekends, when the events and programs are held. The events are entertaining and showcase the events during the 1600s, the French and Indian Wars, American Revolution, American Civil War and a Timeline event, which covers every war from the 1600s up to World War - II. During the re-enactment, the artists dress in period costume giving the play an authentic feel. Visitors can enjoy homemade baked goods and drinks prepared by volunteers. All events are free to the public and humble donations are accepted.
