Garam Masala

"Fine Dining Indian Style"

The warm orange tones, brocade covered chairs, dark woods, and beautiful chandelier give Garam Masala a tasteful elegance with an Indian twist. Garam Masala serves up savory curries and spicy Tandoori fare. With a daily changing lunch menu, the refined restaurant is good for business meals. In the evening, the restaurant has an intimate atmosphere perfect for a romantic evening out. Try their delicious traditional Dum Biryani or Bhunna Gosht with Naan bread.

Sitar Indisches Restaurant

"Harmony of Flavors"

Sitar Indisches Restaurant, nestled in Munich's Lehel district, offers tantalizing Indian cuisine. Choose from a lighter meal of naan (Indian bread) along with chicken, fish or meat curry, or select a thali (platter of rice, gravy, vegetables and salad) for a sumptuous fare. The life-size figurine, of an Indian goddess, by the door welcomes all the guests into the brightly colored interiors of this restaurant. Guests can choose to dine at the table or seat themselves on the long couch; while the cobbled patio offers views of the busy streets for those seated on the outside.

Palast der Winde

"Indian Specialties"

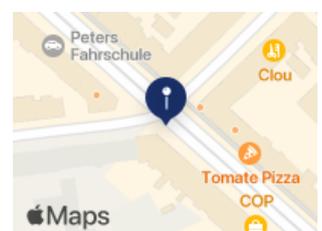

Named after the iconic structure that sits in the Indian city of Jaipur, Palast der Winde is a neighborhood place for Indian cuisine in Munich. Tucked in the Isarvorstadt tenement, this restaurant brings North-Indian fare in an ethnically-inspired setting. The vibrant interiors exude an unpretentious and comfortable vibe, while the food speaks for itself in terms of flavors and authenticity. Highlights of the menu include Tandoori Chicken, Dal Makhani, Chicken Tikka Masala, Rogan Josh and Jheenga Korma. Both traditional and local beverages are offered. Gracious service and soft Indian melodies add to the pleasurable dining experience. Reserve ahead or just walk in with family or friends.

Swagat

"Superlative Indian Cuisine"

There are many good mid-priced Indian restaurants in Munich and Swagat is one in the elite club. If you have a hankering for curry, stop by here and enjoy their slow-cooked, deeply flavored and spiced curries, washed down with a good brew. You could also try some of their lighter dishes, including their tasty onion bhajis and samosas. If you're an indecisive diner, there is a range of thalis (combination of dishes) on offer, including a vegetarian one.

Maharani Restaurant

"Indian Style Meal"

Decorated in kitschy Indian style, in reds and orange, with prints, posters, statues and carvings of Indian paintings and idols; Maharani serves up a selection of popular Indian fare. On the menu you'll find starters like Chana Chaat, samosa and Prawn puri. For mains they have a selection of curries, vegetable dishes as well as Indian barbecue or Tandoori. With a full bar, Maharani is a good option if you're craving some tasty, spicy food.

Natraj Restaurant

"Traditional Indian Food"

Great value for money, cheerful ambiance and well prepared food has garnered Natraj several accolades over the years. This family style restaurant serves up Indian food prepared in the traditional manner. Natraj offers separate lunch and dinner menus, with lunch specials like the Mix Thali which includes a vegetable, rice, lamb curry and snacks. From starters and appetizers to savory mains and vegetarian specials the truly extensive menu has something for everyone. The restaurant is small so you may have to wait a while if it's crowded.
