

"Best Local Cuisine in Paris"

Created by: Cityseeker

📍 11 Locations Bookmarked

📷 by Imnop88a ©

Restaurant chez Allard

"A Dining Legacy"

One of the best and longest-running restaurants in Paris, Allard has been no less than a culinary legacy in the city. Run by the Allard family for 8 decades, the reigns were handed over to one of the world's most acclaimed Monegasque chefs Alain Ducasse in the year 2013. An authentic Parisian bistro tucked away in Saint Germain des Pres, the red couches, patterned walls and wooden shelves exude the old-world French charm. The menu of the restaurant offers exquisite and authentic French delicacies from cheese platters, sweetbreads, grilled meats and foie gras. Go for a glass or two of French wine and needless to say, French dessert to end your meal. Relish the bistro delights of this historic Parisian restaurant.

☎ +33 1 4326 4823

🌐 www.restaurant-allard.fr

✉ restaurant.allard@ducasse-paris.com

📍 41 rue Saint-André-des-Arts, Paris

📷 by Tangopaso ©

Au Rocher de Cancale

"Old-School Bistro"

Au Rocher de Cancale is the classic French bistro, from its gleaming zinc bar to its battered wooden tables. Its old-school air shouldn't be surprising – the restaurant opened in 1846. In those days, it was no casual bistro, but a grand restaurant where the likes of Stendhal and Balzac dined. Today, although it is more modest, it still serves top-rate French cuisine. Try the Saumon Rôti au Pistou (roasted salmon with pesto) or Pavé de Canard aux five Épices (duck with five spices). And remember to take a moment to stand before the restaurant to admire its beautiful neo-Renaissance façade. On Sundays, the restaurant is popular for its copious brunch.

☎ +33 1 4233 5029

✉ contact@aurocherdecancalle.fr

📍 78 rue Montorgueil, Paris

📷 by Blue moon in her eyes ©

Au Bascou

"Glorious French Food!"

If you're looking for a place that serves fine french food with a great wine pairing, then enter Au Bascou restaurant. Along with your wine, order dishes made from lamb, rabbit, sole, veal, or ham. Most of the recipes are from France's Southwest region. Noteworthy dishes are the tartare of salmon with cauliflower cream, the Axoa de veau comme à Espelette and the chocolate short cake with raspberry ganache.

☎ +33 1 4272 6925

🌐 www.au-bascou.fr/

✉ contact@au-bascou.fr

📍 38 Rue Réaumur, Paris

La Ferrandaise Restaurant

"Popular Bistro"

If you are looking for a quality Parisian meal, then La Ferrandaise Restaurant is for you. Not only is the interior gorgeous, with carved stone walls and plush black booths, but the menu is to die for. Every dish offered is composed of high quality ingredients, particularly the beef and cheese. Whether you are searching for the perfect restaurant to take your date, family or friends, La Ferrandaise is the ideal place for all.

+33 1 4326 3636

www.laferrandaise.com/

contact@laferrandaise.com

8 Rue de Vaugirard, Paris

Chez Paul

"Authentic French Food"

La Bastille used to be the area where furniture was made, and cabinet-makers, joiners, and other artisans were regular patrons of this traditional bistro. Today, the atmosphere remains homely and the restaurant is so full, it's ready to burst. Salad with warm goat cheese, beef with Bearnaise sauce, and homemade desserts are just some of the unpretentious dishes offered here.

by jean_baptiste_soufron

+33 1 4700 3457

www.chezpaul.com/

contact@chezpaul.com

13 Rue de Charonne, Paris

Le Chateaubriand

"Revolutionized French Cuisine"

Le Chateaubriand is not like every other French bistro you would come across. Of course, the French attitude is very much present, however, the food has contemporary touches to it, and the cuisine revolutionized. The food is fresh and quite reasonable in price for what you get in quality. The atmosphere is comfortable and casual, which the patrons evidently seem to enjoy. Try the entree of raw shrimp and avocado puree, rare beef filet with bok choy and chocolate ganache (a rich, smooth chocolate dessert served with mango and foam); a perfect end to a good meal.

by TheFork

www.lechateaubriand.net/

129 Avenue Parmentier, Paris

La Mère Agitée

"Unique French Bistro"

A French bistro with a difference who has got a cult following of loyal admirers would be the apt description for La Mère Agitée. A convivial atmosphere in a creatively unorganized space is what greets you when you enter this restaurant. Festooned with poster, photos and postcards from customers, chef and owner Valerie Delahay puts up the menu for the day on a blackboard that features a starter, main and dessert. But then what you get is of the utmost quality such as their famous pig's head with red cabbage which has been a raging success since 1995. If you are looking out for unpretentious hearty meal, then La Mère Agitée is worth a visit.

by RitaE

+33 1 4335 5664

www.lamereagitee.fr/

21 Rue Campagne Première, Paris

Chez l'Ami Jean

"Basque Cuisine"

For Basque cuisine, you don't have to go all the way to Spain. Chez L'Ami Jean offers Basque cuisine in all its authenticity. You can try the Bayonne Ham, Confit of Duck with small sautéed potatoes, or Saint jacques à la plancha, choux, citron noir (Grilled scallops, cabbage, black lemon). This bistro prides itself on using sustainable ingredients so you can rest assured of quality. Tourists and locals throng this place for its delicious fares. Though priced on the steeper end, offerings are well worth the money spent.

+33 1 4705 8689
(Reservations)

lamijean.fr/

contact@lamijean.fr

27 rue Malar, Paris

by Foodie In Disguise ©

Au Bon Accueil

"A French Connection"

If you're looking for some non-traditional French cuisine, then this cozy bistro is perfect. With a friendly atmosphere and a location close to the Eiffel tower, Au Bon Accueil is an excellent choice for a quiet meal. Try the seared tuna or braised & shredded beef wrapped in chard served with creamed potatoes. In summer, the terrace allows you a pleasant sight of the Eiffel Lathe.

+33 1 4705 4611
(Reservations)

www.aubonaccueilparis.com/

reservation@aubonaccueilparis.com

14 rue de Montessuy, Paris

by Allerina & Glen MacLarty *

Restaurant Victor

"Bon Appetit!"

Victor is a lovely French bistro in the 16th district and not very far away from Trocadero. It features a seasonally-evolving and fairly-priced, authentic menu made from some of the freshest, local ingredients. Wine aficionados will be delighted with the extensive vino list on offer. Opt for a Rose or the regional specialty, Grand Cru. The interiors are simple and welcoming, with dazzling chandeliers adding the glam quotient. Try signature dishes Salade Victor Hugo and Butcher's cut of beef in a Roquefort sauce and served with sauteed mushrooms and Landon.

+33 1 4727 5507

101 Bis rue Lauriston, Paris

by smalljude ©

L'Os à Moelle

"Engaging Atmosphere"

Congratulations go to L'Os à Moelle's talented chef, Thierry Faucher, for the miracles he works in his kitchen and the sheer variety of delights he produces. With a CV that reads like a Who's Who of the culinary world (he previously collaborated with the famous chef, Christian Constant, at the Crillon) his reputation is deservedly well-established. Simple but elegant fare, including fried bream on semolina and light chocolate dumplings with nuts and caramel sauce; congenial service and an engaging atmosphere.

+33 1 4557 2727

3 Rue Vasco de Gama, Paris

JOIN US AT:

cityseeker.com