Giggetto

"Traditional Roman Fare"

Restaurant Giggetto is a model of the Hebraic-roman tradition and is located in one of the most evocative places in the quarter. The cellar, which can be found in the foundations of Portico d'Ottavia, is worth a visit. The codfish fillet is sublime, perhaps the best in Rome, as are the anchovies and artichokes alla giudia. The home-made desserts are mouth-watering. Good wine list.

Sora Lella

"Restaurant Adored By Locals"

Sora means sister, and Lella was the dear sister of Aldo Fabrizi, one of the best-loved faces in Italian cinema. The original manager cultivated a warm and friendly atmosphere, and the tradition is carried on by the new manager, Aldo Fabrizi's nephew. Sora Lella is well maintained and air-conditioned. The elegant ambiance makes it a great place to host your next business meeting. They serve an excellent risotto with vegetables, plenty of tuna, country style squid and cheese served with marmalade and wine. The home-made desserts are wonderful.
