

"Best of International Cuisines in Rome"

Created by: Cityseeker

📍 12 Locations Bookmarked

📷 by chengzhu ©

Hana

"Classic Korean Fare"

Owned by a family from Seoul, Hana offers you some mouthwatering delicacies from South Korea. Many of the ingredients are sourced from their native country, which enables them to impart authentic flavors to the food. A Korean meal is never complete without a vast assortment of side dishes, and this restaurant doesn't deviate from the tradition; dishes like daeji bulgogi (spicy marinated pork) are perfectly complemented by sides of kimchi jjigae (kimchi stew) and seasoned spinach.

📞 +39 06 446 1094

📍 Piazza Manfredo Fanti 15, Rome

📷 by LAWJR ©

Zenobia

"Syrian Restaurant in Italy"

Zenobia is the only Syrian restaurant in Italy. Go on Fridays and Saturdays, when live entertainment like Arabic music and belly dancing accompanies your meal. The kitchen prepares typical Mediterranean cuisine specialties such as hummus, mutabal, warak inab and shawerma. Damascus specialties include lisanat, tongue or brain salad, lamb liver and raw meat, kafta halabiyen, spicy minced meat, and kibbeh bissinyie, croquettes of meat, onion and pine nuts. The mixed grill is excellent and not to be missed. Syrian wines too are offered.

📞 +39 06 7049 0488

🌐 www.ristorantezenobia.it/ ✉ info@ristorantezenobia.it

📍 Piazza Dante 23/24, Rome

📷 by jyleen21 ©

Gainn

"Delicious Korean Cuisine"

Gainn can always be relied on for a great dining experience; delicious food, efficient service and a friendly atmosphere make this one of Rome's best Korean restaurants. To add to it all, the prices don't burn a hole in your pocket, and you can indulge yourself with many delicacies. When here, the dishes you must try include the traditional bibimbap, galbi (marinated beef short ribs) as of course, the eternal favorite, kimchi jjigae (kimchi stew). The restaurant is closed on Sundays.

📞 +39 06 4436 0160

📍 Via dei Mille 18, Rome

📷 by stu_spivack ©

Asmara

"A Mouthwatering Taste of Africa"

Although it is named after Eritrea's capital city, the offerings at Asmara are not limited to Eritrean fare; instead, delicacies from neighboring Ethiopia are also found on the menu. The menu incorporates a host of mouthwatering preparations from both countries, right from appetizers to desserts. You get to gorge on African treats like minciet abish (beef cooked in spices and butter), zighini di agnello (spicy lamb stew with hot sauce), spriss asa (swordfish with spices and green pepper) and the hugely popular gored gored (baked beef with awaze and butter).

Vegetarians are sure to enjoy shiro, bamia and timtimo. Traditional desserts and beverages complete the meal.

+39 06 481 4409

info@ristoranteasmara.com

Via Cernaia 36, Rome

by TheFork

Bi Won

"Korean Delicacies"

If a day of admiring wonders like the Colosseum and shopping at Via Veneto has left you tired, Bi Won is ever ready to replenish your energy with mouthwatering dishes. A restaurant popular with locals and tourists alike, it is the place to head to for some delicious Korean food. Seafood and meat lovers are sure to love this eatery. Bibimbap, the delicacy made from rice and chili pepper paste, among other things, is a must-try.

+39 06 44 57605

Via Conteverde 62, Rome

by iSAWcompany

Mr. Kebab

"Pizza & Kebab on Via Oderisi da Gubbio"

The pizza and kebabs at Mr. Kebab on Via Oderisi da Gubbio are a great choice for a fast but tasty meal. Whether you want pizza by the slice, falafel, couscous or other Egyptian specialties, Mr. Kebab is known for serving great quality and delicious food. All of their ingredients are absolutely fresh, and none of them are frozen or defrosted beforehand. The kebabs are prepared with fresh lamb, turkey or veal, and cooked with various condiments. This is then served with raw or cooked vegetables, and steamed rice, all enclosed in a perfectly stuffed roll.

+39 06 559 2711

Via Oderisi da Gubbio 231, Rome

by pixel1

Corno d'Africa

"An Excellent Eritrean Meal!"

As the name suggests, the cuisine you are served at Corno d'Africa is from a country in the Horn of Africa; Eritrea, to be more specific. Chairs made from braided goatskin and mesob tables that hold the injera set the tone, and what follows is a traditional Eritrean dining experience. Forget all about your forks and knives here; instead, gorge on the sambussas, zizil tibs and zighini with your hands, savoring every bite. Vegetarians also have numerous scrumptious options from which to choose. Open nightly, except for Sundays.

+39 06 5327 3923

Via Folco Portinari 7, Rome

by stu_spivack

Mesob

"Culturally Enriching Dining!"

Named after the hourglass-shaped table that forms such an important part of the Ethiopian dining experience, Mesob has a vast assortment of traditional delicacies to offer you. A welcome change from all the Italian eateries that dominate the city's restaurant scene, it offers a great opportunity for dining out with a group of friends or family. In typical Ethiopian style, everyone eats off the same plate, and there is no need for knives and forks; just your hands are enough. Together, you can all enjoy kay tibs (spicy cubed beef), gored gored (raw beef flavored with spicy butter), doro wot (spicy chicken) and more. Vegetarians also have many choices before them. Desserts like baklava and tahnia end the meal perfectly. Credit cards are not accepted.

+39 3382511621

Via Prenestina 118, Rome

by stu_spivack

La Taverna del Mossob

"A Taste of Ethiopia"

Although Rome has its fair share of African restaurants, La Taverna del Mossob stands out because of the fantastic Ethiopian food on offer. The dining experience at this family-run eatery is further enhanced by the warm, personal service and the friendly atmosphere in general. You can feast on Ethiopian delicacies like zighini, sambussa, kategna be ayib and more. The outdoor seating makes a great dining spot in summer.

+39 06 2170 1907

Via Prenestina 109, Rome

by nikluv

Mekong

"Vietnamese Delights!"

Mekong is one of the most sought after restaurants in the neighborhood of Tuscolano. The ambiance is casual, yet intimate for a quiet meal. Some of the dishes you may want to try are the pork chops, the pork steak, vegetarian rolls, cannelloni, fish soups, spicy spinach ravioli and much more. The wide selections of teas are a must try! The desserts are a great to end the meal with. Hire their catering services and venue for private events. Call ahead for reservations and more information.

+39 06 782 5247

Via Enea 56/A, Rome

by thefork.com

Ristorante Africano Enqutatash

"From the Horn of Africa"

A far cry from all the Italian restaurants that line the streets of Rome, Ristorante Africano Enqutatash serves you cuisine from two countries in the Horn of Africa: Eritrea and Ethiopia. A family-owned operation, this eatery offers you a typically African dining experience. You won't find any knives and forks here; eat with your hands and savor every bite. Gored gored (raw beef with spicy butter), doro wot (spicy chicken) and beg wot (spicy lamb) are just a few of the tasty treats on offer. Traditional drinks like the Ethiopian ouzo and the Eritrean zibib are the perfect accompaniments to the meal.

+39 06 27 3767

Viale della Stazione Prenestina 55, Rome

by "Stacy Spensley"

El Cubano

"Cuban Meals"

This local restaurant serves great Cuban delicacies. The ambiance at El Cubano is casual and lively for a fun time, whether with colleagues or friends. The staff is very friendly and their service is much appreciated. Try their fried chicken and banana, rice with beans, vegetables, shrimp, ham and eggs, croquettes, salad with avocado and much more. Complement your meals with some of the creative mixes at the bar. For reservations and more information, call ahead.

+39 06 718 0139

Via Siderno 50, Rome

JOIN US AT:

cityseeker.com

