Bonsoir Clara

"Great Eclectic Restaurant"

This is a delightful restaurant with a young, convivial atmosphere in the heart of Brussels' small fashion district. The menu is rather hard to categorize since it's as varied as it can get. You can just as easily dine on French or Italian cuisine as you can on Asian. This is an excellent choice for groups whose members have varying tastes, and for those simply wanting a delicious meal in a pleasant atmosphere. The restaurant is spacious, the service friendly and the prices reasonable.

La Buvette

"Contemporary Cooking"

This intimate restaurant in Saint-Gilles has been garnering rave accolades since it opened, for its ingredient-driven approach and highly creative cooking. The restaurant interiors are well laid-out, with minimalistic furnishings and decor choices. Black has a conspicuous presence in the design, from the table-tops and the banquettes to an entire wall. The mosaic-tiled floor and ceilings add a nice touch. The food menu is a straightforward eight course, regularly changing affair, and won't confuse you with too many choices. Artisanal ingredients, inventive cooking and impeccable presentation are the hallmarks of the kitchen, and are bound to delight. The wine list throws up excellent pairing options. Reservations are recommended.

La Paix

"Delectable Mélange of Cuisines"

What began as a quaint brasserie in 1892, is now a remarkable, multiple Michelin-star restaurant, La Paix. Bidding adieu to the steak frites staple, Chef David Martin took over the reins in 2004 and presented an award-winning multi-culti cuisine. Seated amidst an elegant dining room, which is adorned with a captivating display of origami cranes, diners can savor an exemplary blend of Belgian and French cuisines, spruced with Japanese flavors. Comprising local ingredients, the dishes here are inspired by traditional recipes, but incorporate just the right amount of innovation. Reserve a table at La Paix at the earliest to relish a sublime meal.
