Le Bistrot de Lyon

"Elegant French Bistro"

This time-honored bistro at the corner of rue Merciere exudes a charming vibe, with its 1900s decor and classic French elegance. Adding to the charm is its culinary prowess, reflected in the traditional Lyonnaise dishes that bring many a celebrity here. Unpretentious and cozy, Le Bistrot de Lyon is most well-known for its Pie with sweetbread and Foie Gras. Set menus are also available at decent prices. The restaurant also has a lovely outdoor area under its front awning during the summers, perfect for a view of the streets and for idle people-watching.

Les Terrasses Saint-Pierre

"Museum Cafe"

Tucked away on the first floor of the Musée des Beaux-Arts, this quaintly decorated alfresco restaurant provides a charming dining experience. Les Terrasses Saint-Pierre is set in an open space, replete with cozy armchairs and coffee tables, as well as wrought-iron chairs and parasols that shelter you from the summer sun. This serene cafe serves contemporary light French cuisine that includes dishes such as Marinated Mackerel with raspberry vinegar and Beef Cheek Terrine with pickles.
