

"Best European in New York"

Created by: Cityseeker

📍 14 Locations Bookmarked

📷 by webandi ©

Cafe Katja

"Cozy Neighborhood Restaurant"

Cafe Katja is a cozy little restaurant with a warm, intimate feel to it. A great place for a quiet drink and snacks or a romantic meal, the menu largely features German and Austrian classics like beef goulash, weiner schnitzel, homemade liverwurst, meatballs and soft pretzels. Not your typical beer garden, the restaurant is a nice place to enjoy a pleasant meal in a nice ambiance.

📞 +44 212 219 9545

💻 www.cafekatja.com/

📍 79 Orchard Street, New York NY

📷 by Pexels ©

Loreley Beer Garden

"Restaurant and Biergarten"

This old-world German restaurant exudes a lovely continental charm. At Loreley, the classic Brauhaus-style ambiance invites patrons to indulge in good food and drinks in the heated outdoor Biergarten. Whether it's the schnitzel sandwiches, liverwurst on German rye, herring in cream sauce with onions or apples, and salt potatoes, you will be mesmerized with the melange of flavors and hearty servings. Make sure to leave some room for dessert, which includes Fried Ice Cream and Black Forrest Cake. Relax in the outdoor patio for a charming setting to enjoy your scrumptious meal.

📞 +1 212 253 7077

💻 www.loreleynyc.com

✉ info@loreleynyc.com

📍 7 Rivington Street, New York NY

📷 by Beyond My Ken ©

Veselka

"Hip Ukrainian Fare"

While the East Village has long been recognized as a trendy neighborhood, it also holds a rich history as an ethnic community. Veselka, a Ukrainian restaurant, stands as a testament to that heritage. This unique establishment combines the atmosphere of a luncheonette and a sidewalk café, exuding an Eastern European charm. The menu offers a variety of options, including breakfast muffins, bagels, potato pancakes, and egg sandwiches, among other selections, perfect for starting the day. For lunch, guests can enjoy a hearty bowl of borscht or indulge in the famous pierogies, while a satisfying dinner could consist of kielbasa or veal goulash, leaving patrons with contented smiles. Veselka provides a taste of tradition and a glimpse into the cultural fabric of the neighborhood.

📞 +1 212 228 9682

💻 www.veselka.com/location/veselka/

✉ info@veselka.com

📍 144 2nd Avenue, New York NY

Alta

"Aromas of Spain"

Visit Alta to experience authentic Spanish delicacies in a romantic atmosphere. Peppers stuffed with creamy rice, and warm goat cheese fritters, served with some exclusive Mediterranean wine, are local favorites. The Spanish hacienda style decor adds to the restaurant's exotic environs. No wonder, the place is hugely frequented by large groups. Weekends have special menus for the late revelers.

+1 212 505 7777

altarestaurant.com

64 West 10th Street, New York NY

by Resy

Wallsé

"Rostbraten or Palatschinken"

Wallse was awarded Michelin star almost as soon as it opened, creating the kind of buzz that you can't buy - and a pretty lengthy reservation list. The food is largely Austrian - it's rich, a little on the heavy side, and served in generous portions. The desserts are exemplary - warm apple strudel anyone? And the wine list is solid. It's the kind of restaurant that warrants a special occasion; be ready to spend big but eat fantastically well. Opt for the outside patio on those gorgeous, sunny days.

+1 212 352 2300

www.wallse.com/

pr@wallse.com

344 West 11th Street, New York NY

by AlMare

Kafana

"Serbian Restaurant"

A neighborhood restaurant with a rustic charm, Kafana is modeled after a typical Serbian bistro-bar. The restaurant pays homage to its roots and the menu features meat-based dishes quite heavily. With a nice selection of beers and wines, it's a nice place to stop by for a casual dinner with friends. Dishes to try include the typical Kobasice or sausages grilled to perfection; as well as other favorites like Cevapi, bacon-wrapped stuffed prunes and Sopska salad. Don't miss out on the unique desserts to end your meal like the chestnut puree with whipped cream and a hot coffee.

+1 212 353 8000

www.kafanany.com/

info@kafanany.com

116 Avenue C, Between 7th and 8th Street, East Village, New York NY

by Adam Jaime on Unsplash

Boqueria

"Tap Into Some Tapas"

Boqueria provides a twist on tapas-scene dining, provided by a chef who recently spent two years checking out the local restaurant scene in Spain. Small, attractive plates of regional cheeses and cured ham replicate those of everyday Spanish eating, while flat breads, salads and sandwiches also feature heavily on the menu. For a stronger appetite, there's excellent entrees like gallina en pepitoria (braised cornish hen) and arroz cremoso (bomba rice with salt cod). Try the helado borracho for dessert to taste the superb Pedro Ximenez, a varietal sherry from Andalusia. No reservations accepted.

+1 212 255 4160

boqueriarestaurant.com/ta-pas-bar-nyc-flatiron/

flatiron@boquerianyc.com

53 West 19th Street, New York NY

by Farhad Ibrahimzade on Unsplash

Mari Vanna

"Dining with Maria Ivanovna"

Mari Vanna is a delightful Russian eatery named after a fictional Russian babushka. The restaurant's owners have attempted to recreate the ambiance of a typical old-world Russian grandma's home. Even the restroom at Mari Vanna sports old world fittings and walls that are papered with pages from old Russian newspapers. The food and beverage menu at Mari Vanna includes 78 brands of premium vodka and several homemade infused brews, which have flavors like watermelon, horseradish, apricot and more. They also offer traditional Russian fares, like herring under a fur coat (herring and vegetable salad), pelmeni (Veal Dumplings) and borscht with pompushka (beet soup with beef). This place offers a prix-fixe lunch menu all week and a brunch menu on the weekends.

+1 212 777 1955

www.marivanna.ru/ny/

marivanna@ginzaproject.us

41 East 20th Street, Between Broadway and Park Avenue South, New York NY

by ElliotMacy

Aska

"Contemporary Scandinavian Fare"

Experience exquisite Nordic cuisine at this intimate restaurant located in Brooklyn. The food menu is ingredient-driven and the kitchen team goes to great lengths to procure the best; from handpicking vegetables to sourcing ethically raised meats. The menu offerings are extremely innovative and are sure to take you by surprise. Diners can relish the extravagant multi-course meals from the tasting menu with a delicious wine pairing. Though a dinner at Aska certainly won't be cheap, it's great value for money considering what you are served.

+1 929 337 6792

askanyc.com/

info@askanyc.com

47 South 5th Street, Brooklyn, New York NY

by Nadja Oertlin on Unsplash

Salinas

"Allow Spain to Charm You"

For those who think that Spain is only associated with sangria and tapas, Salinas uncovers the other delectable but lesser known gems of Spanish cuisine. One can choose from dishes like paella, patatas brava and porcella, apart from the usual tapas to enrich the plate. Each morsel has that inimitable Spanish magic to delight your taste buds. Complement your meal with cocktails and wine, and you're ready for a truly Spanish sojourn. There is a courtyard with dim lights that add to the enchanting air of the place. Sit next to the fireplace for an added effect on your visit.

+1 212 776 1990

salinasnyc.com/

136 9th Avenue, New York NY

by Sebastian Coman Photography on Unsplash

Alcala Restaurant

"Rustic Basque Dining"

Alcala features the distinctive cuisines of the various regions of Spain, each brought to life with fresh, seasonal ingredients, traditional flavors and contemporary techniques. The ambiance is casual, yet refined, and the staff amicable. The menu includes dishes like gambas al ajillo and rape en salsa, alongside grilled lamb chops and filet Mignon. The menu changes with the seasons and offers only the best of fresh Spanish cuisine. Paired with Spanish wines, well-crafted cocktails and cavas, Alcala offers diners a complete dining experience.

+1 212 370 1866

www.alcalarestaurantnyc.com/

alcalarestaurant@gmail.com

246 East 44th Street, New York NY

by corsi photo

Bierhaus NYC

"German Delights"

Hofbrau Bierhaus is a German beer hall serving a rotation of German beers on tap in hefty full liter glasses. The waitresses wear typical Bavarian barmaid garb for the full-on Munich effect. The service is chipper and they even serve a boot of beer. The food selection includes all things starchy, meaty and Deutsche, like different wursts and schnitzels. However, the main reason to go is for the easy beer-drinking vibe rooted in the German-ness of the place. You can even join the Stein Club, here you can store your stein at the bar.

+1 646 874 9498

bierhausnyc.com/

info@bierhausnyc.com

712 3rd Avenue, 45th Street,
New York NY

by dalecruse

Aquavit

"Scandinavian Dream Restaurant"

This attractive Scandinavian restaurant features mid-century Scandinavian decor both in the front room and back room, as well as in the lounge area. The ash wood ceiling, mellow lighting, wooden floors, and sleek designs create a refined and modern ambiance. However, the spectacular food prepared by celebrity chef Marcus Samuelsson is the real star. The three-course prix fixe dinner menu includes favorites like smoked salmon, Arctic char, and some vegetarian options. Reservations are a must in the formal downstairs dining room. Aquavit also features a bar, a lounge, and private dining rooms for special events and corporate functions.

+1 212 307 7311

www.aquavit.org/

info@aquavit.org

65 East 55th Street, Park
Avenue Tower, New York NY

by LH (talk)

Russian Tea Room

"A Gilded Landmark"

Located right next door to the famed Carnegie Hall, the Russian Tea Room has a rich and long-standing history with New York high society. Originally opened by members of the Russian Imperial Ballet in 1926, this elegant, red and gold architectural masterpiece has been host to countless celebrities, performers and politicians. The restaurant's ownership has since changed hands since its closure in 2002, after the death of former owner Warner LeRoy; it re-opened and returned with the same opulent and stately atmosphere.

+1 212 581 7100

russiantearoomnyc.com/

info@russiantearoomnyc.com

150 West 57th Street, New York NY

JOIN US AT:
cityseeker.com