Honorable William Wall Bar

"Delightful Floating Bar"

Located amidst the waters of New York Harbor, this delightful open-air bar is part of the floating clubhouse that belongs to the Manhattan Sailing Club. Operational during summers, this bar is located on the top deck of the boat, and serves a decent range of drinks. Usually filled with people who come to watch the sailing races, this bar also allows patrons to carry their own food whilst ordering drinks from the bar. A perfect place to chill during warm summer evenings, the bar offers magnificent views of the New York skyline.

Loreley Beer Garden

"Restaurant and Biergarten"

This old-world German restaurant exudes a lovely continental charm. At Loreley, the classic Brauhaus-style ambiance invites patrons to indulge in good food and drinks in the heated outdoor Biergarten. Whether it's the schnitzel sandwiches, liverwurst on German rye, herring in cream sauce with onions or apples, and salt potatoes, you will be mesmerized with the melange of flavors and hearty servings. Make sure to leave some room for dessert, which includes Fried Ice Cream and Black Forrest Cake. Relax in the outdoor patio for a charming setting to enjoy your scrumptious meal.

The Delancey

"Party All Night"

This three-story club and lounge attracts the most hip and happening crowds in New York and is a great venue to host theme parties. There is a DJ most nights, playing fast and peppy songs to get the crowd grooving. The lounge on the first floor has a relaxed atmosphere and sleek wooden decor. The rooftop bar is the perfect place to enjoy the LES breeze and unwind after a hard day at work. The basement space hosts live band performances, and is frequented by 20-something music aficionados. It's definitely a great place to socialize and enjoy a drink with friends.

The Standard Biergarten

"German Delights"

Located within the The Standard, High Line, this classic, bustling Biergarten packs in a solid punch when it comes to German beers and food. The interiors are handsomely decorated with exposed brick walls and candle-lit lanterns providing much of the charm the bar exudes. But the real draw and the bar's namesake is the outdoor seating area for people who prefer an airier setting with a bonus of great city views. You can catch a game on one of their screens or play ping-pong to unwind in the middle of rounds of your favorite drinks.

Frying Pan

"Formerly Sunken Hot Spot"

Visitors can experience the mysteries of being aboard a sunken boat while also enjoying fresh seafood onboard the Frying Pan. The Frying Pan was a former lightship, but eventually fell into disrepair and sunk due to a broken engine. It was bought by its current owners and repaired in the 1980s and now serves as a popular bar and grill. However, the ship still retains its sunken look in the lower levels in order to acknowledge the Frying Pan's long history.

Bohemian Hall & Beer Garden

"Journey to the Old Country"

An Astorian institution and last of its kind in the city, Bohemian Hall and Beer Garden brings the flavor of the old country. A decently priced bar and restaurant serve Czech and Slovak delights inside. But the reason to go is the Beer Garden, which is a must at least once a summer. It gets packed on the weekends. Locals like to play cards and board games on a calm summer's night. Kielbasa and other grilled favorites are available along with pitchers of Czech beers, like Staropramen.
