The Bitter End

"Rock Scene"

Founded in 1961, the Bitter End is New York's oldest rock club. There is no food served here, so you do not have to worry about the sounds of tinkling glasses and quaking crockery distracting the likes of Stevie Wonder, Neil Diamond and Bob Dylan. Over the years, a number of big name comedians have performed here as well, including Woody Allen, George Carlin and Joan Rivers. A brick wall forms the backdrop for all these acts, including many you may not have heard about.

Comedy Cellar

"Hysterical Comedy Acts"

If you're in the mood to laugh, stop by the Comedy Cellar and watch some of today's best comedians perform their material. Near New York University, this casual spot is the ideal place for a group gathering. Some of the best comedians of today have showcased their material here before making it big, and both Robin Williams and Jerry Seinfeld have made the crowds roar. Above the Comedy Cellar is the Olive Tree Cafe, which serves some amazing cappuccinos, desserts, milkshakes, and full meals.

The People's Improv Theater

"Activity House"

The People's Improv Theater is acclaimed to be one of the best improv lessons in New York. This versatile venue is host to many events and theatrical performances. The place is always buzzing as an array of activities are always going on, right from rehearsals to functions, workshops to classes. The theater can also be rented out for social events.

Gotham Comedy Club

"Funny Moments Await"

Hecklers beware, the stand-up performers at this elegant Flatiron club are fiercely witty. In the main showroom, up-and-coming talent and headliners share the stage. Theme shows, such as Comedy Salsa, Sketch Comedy Mondays and New Talent Night run during the week. The downstairs bar is perfect for cocktails either before or after a show.

New York Comedy Club

"Bright, Brash and Bold Comics"

Expect shock value from the witty performers at this popular funny forum. There seems no room for politeness among the gutsy comedians who share their straightforward and hysterical thoughts on life. Audiences will enjoy an evening of edgy and insightful humor. Chris Rock, notorious for speaking his mind, got his start here. Damon Wayans of In Living Color and Rodney Dangerfield have also entertained these audiences.

Carolines on Broadway

"Top-Tier Comics"

This Times Square comedy club will add spice to your evening with its roster of top comedians. A descending staircase leads patrons to a lively bar scene. In the bright showroom, snack on scrumptious calamari and Buffalo wings while America's top comics perform. Jerry Seinfeld, Margaret Cho and Colin Quinn have all performed their material at this famous forum. There is a two-drink minimum, as well as a cover charge.

Stand Up NY

"Comedy Club in New York"

Food and entertainment are two things everyone loves. Get the best of both at Stand Up New York. Delectable cuisine accompanied by amazing comic stand-ups prove to be a treat that is irresistible to say the least. This ever popular, Upper West Side club has been in the entertainment business for over two decades, and still retains a fresh and trendy atmosphere. Of course, with popular and upcoming performers on stage, you are in for an evening of laughter that will leave you with an urge to relive the experience.

Comic Strip Live

"For a Few More Guffaws"

Comic Strip Live, just as the name suggests, is all about making you laugh. The oldest name in stand-up comedy, this is the place where comic veterans like Jerry Seinfeld and Adam Sandler started out before they hit stardom. The comedy acts are top notch and promise to keep you in stitches. With a seating capacity of 200, the club can accommodate groups in a cabaret style setting. The venue can also be rented out for corporate presentations, functions and private parties.
