Secondi

"Best Deals"

Secondi is a high-end consignment store in Dupont Circle that displays a vast collection from designers all over the world; and you will find not just clothes, but also shoes, bags and jewelry at their store. They have a convenient discount system in place, that makes it easier for one to trade clothes at a reasonable rate. Some designer items are ridiculously affordable, however you may have to scourge through all their racks to find that perfect piece to take home.

Capitol Hill Books

"House of Books"

In this deceptively tiny shop tucked on a side street near DC's iconic Eastern Market, patrons have been known to spend hours browsing an extensive collection of used books. It is an old house converted into a bookstore, which holds more paper than one could ever imagine. The two levels of this place are covered floor to ceiling with secondhand books on literature, history, poetry, and more. Somehow the owner knows exactly where everything is and is always happy to help his customers in their book hunt here. Still, if you can't find a book of your choice, you can pick up a free book from one of the boxes kept outside this lovely bookstore.

Current Boutique

"Great Fashion Deals"

Located on Wilson Boulevard, Current Boutique is one of the well-known fashion boutiques in Arlington that also stocks secondhand clothes. Pick from a range of branded and fashionable clothes and accessories, as well as some rare and fashionable vintage designs. If you have a piece of designer clothing you no longer use, then you can also walk in here and get a great price for it, or best of all, get a piece of trendy clothing at a cheaper price. Expect to stumble upon products from designers like Kate Spade, Marc Jacobs, Alexander Wang and many more.
