Ted's Hideaway

"The Local Bar"

A chilled-out place to beat the stress amidst a crowd that couldn't care less about pretensions. A great example of a typical dive bar, Ted's Hideaway mostly has locals coming here. It has happy hours twice a day and the prices get slashed to an extent where you could end up drinking more than you can contain. With its dark interior, it sure makes a great venue for watching football with your pals. Offerings on the menu are quite reasonable and well worth the money spent.

Mac's Club Deuce

"Grand Old Bar"

Club Deuce attracts folks from all stratas of society with its laid-back aura. With the jukebox plays a wide variety of music, the fun quotient of this place increases by the hour; the later, the better. Equipped with a horseshoe bar and pool table, it is surely set with all the elements that make a night out experience at a bar truly amazing. First established in 1926, this old timer still shines through when other establishments have come and gone. Don't forget to carry cash though as this 21-over club doesn't accept credit cards.

Lost Weekend

"Pub Grub & Pool"

In the midst of the South Beach glamor and hype is this very low-key dive bar. Very much a local hangout, Lost Weekend is also a great place for visitors to get a break from the relentless fabulousness that is South Beach. You and a group of your friends can kick back, down shots made with things like Goldschlager and Rumpelintz and play pool or foosball. Events are often hosted on the premises so make sure to check out their social media handles before planning a visit.

The Bar

"The Name Says It All"

The Bar is aptly named since it is "the" bar at Coral Gables. Established in 1946, The Bar is still going strong. There are plenty of beers on tap and lots of fine liquors. The Bar is perfect for just a drink, but they also serve top-notch bar food, such as fish and chips or a grilled steak sandwich. It is darkly lit which creates a mysterious atmosphere, perfect for a date or a night with friends.

Barracuda Taphouse & Grill

"Bar With a Pool"

Coconut Grove's beloved dive bar, Barracuda is about as far as you can get from South Beach's glitz and glamor. The wood decorating the bar adds a rustic look and the bar boasts massive televisions for watching the game. The menu features Barracuda's famous fresh Barracuda Combo and their Barracuda Special Pizza, as well as all kinds of bar food favorites from nachos to wings to refreshing ice creams to beat the heat. From behind the bar comes a selection of incredible craft beers and you should also check out their happy hour options for a steal deal.

Happy's Stork Lounge and Liquor

"Dive In"

If you're in the mood to step away from glitzy, sophisticated Miami nightlife and into a true dive bar, look no further. The decor comes with no frills, the bartenders are friendly and the drinks are strong and cheap. Happy's Stork Lounge also has an internet jukebox, a few touch-screen trivia machines and some vintage arcade games like Pac-Man, making it a great place to visit with friends. For a laid-back night out without any fuss (or breaking the bank) check out Happy's Stork Lounge.
