Max Karaoke Studio

"Karaoke Within Cozy Confines"

Max Karaoke Studio offers afternoon, evening and late-night karaoke sessions and is mainly attractive for its reasonable prices as opposed to high-quality equipment. Its interiors are unpretentious, with comfortable sofas, television sets, iPads, and music systems. It provides facilities such as songbooks in multiple languages, downloaded music with trending songs of the month and BYOB with a low corkage charge. This is a good place for those who prefer small crowds and a cozy ambiance as compared to a large audience, and also for those who wish to try their talents at karaoke without spending too much money.

The Falls

"Bottoms Up!"

As soon as you'll step into The Falls cozy atmosphere and laid back charm of the place will make you feel right at home. The lovely wooden log covered walls and the unique chandelier hanging over the bar adds to the appeal of this watering hole. Order from the delicious list of cocktails, The Modesto or The Hunter maybe, to help you relax and enjoy the peppy music brought to you by the talented DJs or the lively bands and karaoke on Sundays. The bar is spacious enough to host private parties of 15 and above; can you say Oscar viewing party?

Brass Monkey

"Singing and Drinking"

A popular neighborhood hangout, this dive bar gets rowdier and rowdier as the night progresses and the drinks keep flowing. Located in Koreatown, the place is often filled with enthusiastic locals. It can be quite seedy at times, but the kitschy atmosphere more than makes up for the seediness. The drinks are very cheap and the owners are relaxed and friendly; it is the kind of place you could make a regular stop on your bar-hopping circuit.
