Max Karaoke Studio

"Karaoke Within Cozy Confines"

Max Karaoke Studio offers afternoon, evening and late-night karaoke sessions and is mainly attractive for its reasonable prices as opposed to high-quality equipment. Its interiors are unpretentious, with comfortable sofas, television sets, iPads, and music systems. It provides facilities such as songbooks in multiple languages, downloaded music with trending songs of the month and BYOB with a low corkage charge. This is a good place for those who prefer small crowds and a cozy ambiance as compared to a large audience, and also for those who wish to try their talents at karaoke without spending too much money.

Brass Monkey

"Drinks & Karaoke Fun"

A popular neighborhood hangout, this dive bar gets rowdier as the night progresses and the drinks keep flowing. Located in Koreatown, the place is often filled with enthusiastic locals. It can be quite seedy sometimes, but the kitschy atmosphere more than makes up for the seediness. The drinks are cheap and the owners are relaxed and friendly; it is the kind of place you could make a regular stop on your bar-hopping circuit. With karaoke on each night, you can also test your singing skills or simply let loose and enjoy.
