Margot Cafe and Bar

"Simple Decor And Great Food"

This quaint little eatery's charming and simplistic design will transport you to a quiet and picturesque village in Europe. Flower pots blossoming with color, a handwritten menu, and oversized sunflowers on the patio complement the simple white tablecloths and exposed brick walls. Strong country flavors arise from piping hot dishes, and there's a menu for each day and season. Try dishes like Grilled Quail with lentils and braised greens or Homemade Spaghetti with oven-dried tomatoes, olives, capers, and white anchovies. A good wine list tops off the meal.

The Pfunky Griddle

"Do-It-Yourself Pancake House"

The Pfunky Griddle offers guests a one-of-a-kind dining experience. Unlike your standard pancake house, customers at this Nashville hot spot get to experience the joy of cooking pancakes, French toast, eggs, and home-fries right on the griddle at their table. With a choice of batter types and toppings, there is sure to be something to please everyone. Furthermore, the Pfunky Griddle is a great place to bring children and extended family, since the interactive experience makes this more than just a great place for breakfast food. Be sure to check their Facebook page for free pancake times and other specials. -- by Lynn-nore Chittom

Loveless Cafe

"One of Nashville's Great Traditions"

Enjoy Southern delicacies at this nationally acclaimed venue, which has been frequented by celebrities, world travelers and local residents for nearly fifty years. Try the award-winning country ham and red-eye gravy, smoked pork chop, Southern-fried Chicken and made-from-scratch biscuits with homemade preserves cooked right in the kitchen. They hickory smoke their meats starting at 3a every morning, so you know you're getting the real, traditionally made Southern best.
