Jack's Bar-B-Que

"Tennessee Tradition"

Having started in the food industry at an early age, Jack Cawthon found there was an absence of good barbecue in Nashville. Now known as the king of barbecue, Jack's solid foundation of slow-smoked pork shoulder, beef brisket and award winning sauces has helped build his tasty empire. The downtown location is perfectly situated in the heart of Nashville's main music attractions like the Ryman Auditorium, Tootsies, and Ernest Tubb Record Shop. Look for the three flying pigs sign and get ready to dig into some of the best barbecue Nashville has to offer.

Melting Pot

"Unique Fondue Restaurant"

Intimate private tables provide a perfect setting for romantic couples. The crowd at the Melting Pot is quite sophisticated, as is the dress code. A jacket is recommended but not necessary. To start your fondue experience, the chef will heat the Gruyere, Emmenthaler and white wine for green apples, bread and raw vegetables. You cook your own meat and seafood in oil or broth and then dip it in one of the many dipping sauces. Dessert involves a dozen or more chocolate sauces and bits of pound cake, strawberries and cheesecake.

Sambuca Restaurant

"For A Rare Dining Experience"

The Sambuca Restaurant in Nashville is all about luxurious dining and pampering yourself. The entire atmosphere of the place speaks of elegance, leisure and class. This bar, known for hosting performances by Grammy-winning artists, is imperially furnished with exquisite interiors. The beautiful Balinese balcony and the chandeliers accompanied with a lounge-like seating arrangement give you a uniquely royal dining experience. The Bar Lounge and the Tambour Terrace are equally impressive. Sambuca provides excellent facilities for hosting parties and gatherings and is frequented by elites of Nashville. Check website for open hours.
