Jack's Bar-B-Que

"Tennessee Tradition"

Having started in the food industry at an early age, Jack Cawthon found there was an absence of good barbecue in Nashville. Now known as the king of barbecue, Jack's solid foundation of slow-smoked pork shoulder, beef brisket and award winning sauces has helped build his tasty empire. The downtown location is perfectly situated in the heart of Nashville's main music attractions like the Ryman Auditorium, Tootsies, and Ernest Tubb Record Shop. Look for the three flying pigs sign and get ready to dig into some of the best barbecue Nashville has to offer.

Sambuca Restaurant

"For A Rare Dining Experience"

The Sambuca Restaurant in Nashville is all about luxurious dining and pampering yourself. The entire atmosphere of the place speaks of elegance, leisure and class. This bar, known for hosting performances by Grammy-winning artists, is impeccably furnished with exquisite interiors. The beautiful Balinese balcony and the chandeliers accompanied with a lounge-like seating arrangement give you a uniquely royal dining experience. The Bar Lounge and the Tambour Terrace are equally impressive. Sambuca provides excellent facilities for hosting parties and gatherings and is frequented by elites of Nashville. Check website for open hours.

The Pfunk Griddle

"Do-It-Yourself Pancake House"

The Pfunk Griddle offers guests a one-of-a-kind dining experience. Unlike your standard pancake house, customers at this Nashville hot spot get to experience the joy of cooking pancakes, French toast, eggs, and home-fries right on the griddle at their table. With a choice of batter types and toppings, there is sure to be something to please everyone. Furthermore, the Pfunk Griddle is a great place to bring children and extended family, since the interactive experience makes this more than just a great place for breakfast food. Be sure to check their Facebook page for free pancake times and other specials. -- by Lynn-nore Chittom
