Deliberate Literate

"Music, Good Books and Coffee"

This charming coffeehouse is the place to go to see the intelligentsia hang out in Memphis. The environment at Deliberate Literate is cozy and comfortable, with big couches and a fireplace to make you feel at home. Most patrons read while they sip their coffee, or listen to the live music if they are here on the right evening. Sometimes film classics are shown. And by the way, it is also an excellent bookstore. In fact, you may see a local author shopping here.

Java Cabana

"Coffeehouse with a Twist"

Before you go inside Java Cabana, stop and look at the window for a few minutes. Drop a few coins in the Elvis Impersonator's shrine to see what happens. After you have soaked in the memorabilia and hodge-podge collections, go inside for an experience right out of the beatnik era of the '50s and '60s. If you are lucky, you will be there for one of the frequent poetry readings by local writers, or some retro music played on acoustic guitar. Oh, yes—the coffee's pretty good, too. No alcoholic beverages served.
