Searsucker

"Every Meal is a Party"

Founded on the philosophy of making your dining experience as lively as possible, Searsucker is a spacious restaurant and bar that's ideal for a night out with friends or family. Serving classical American cuisine with their unique flair, you must try the short ribs, grilled octopus or their house specialty- biscuits served with whipped butter and guajillo honey. Their signature cocktails like Peter Rabbit and Up All Night perfectly complements the delicious food. The vibe is boisterous and fun, with the decor being a mix of classy and quirky. Brick-exposed walls and hardwood flooring creates a nice contrast with the rope-themed lighting, plush carpets and intriguing wall decor. Overall, you can say that the restaurant lives up to its promise of making your meal memorable.

Bertrand at Mister A's

"Fine Dining with a View"

In Downtown San Diego, this fine dining establishment is not only well known for premium cuisine, but also for an expansive wine list. In fact, it has been praised for hosting "one of the most outstanding wine lists in the world." While many San Diego restaurants allow for casual dress, this particular establishment requests more formal attire. Men should wear long-sleeved dress shirts and all guests are asked not to wear shorts. Popular entrees include linguini with clam sauce and veal piccata. Enjoy cocktails from the outdoor patio as the sun sets and gives way to the city lights below. Whether you're dining or drinking, Bertrand at Mister A's is a magical venue for a memorable evening.

Kitchen 1540

"Cabana Dining Near the Beach"

Located near the beach, Kitchen 1540 offers an outdoor patio, where couples or small groups can sit around fire pits and dine on pastel, green, padded chairs set. Larger groups can enjoy privacy in small, well-lit cabanas set off to the side. Inside, below slanted ceilings, guests can dine at tables, booths, or the bar, in a room of pastels. - Erick Pettersen
