SAW Galerie

"Arty Affair"

Nestled at the heart of the city, SAW Galerie is a must-visit for all art enthusiasts in town. This art gallery is known for showcasing the artworks of the local artists. Every art piece at this venue talks about the social and political situation of Canada, giving it a one-of-its-kind identity. There are also interactive multimedia exhibits unlike other art galleries. Besides, this venue has also been a host to several music performances regularly.

The Ottawa Art Gallery

"Excellent Municipal Gallery"

Owned and operated by the City of Ottawa, the Ottawa Art Gallery is one of few major Ottawa attractions which is not associated with the federal government. The Firestone Collection here at the gallery is a first class exhibition of Canadian art, including works by Paul-Émile Borduas, Emily Carr and the Group of Seven. A modest collection of modern art showcases lesser-known Canadian artists. The gallery does a roaring trade in rental art, while temporary exhibits focus on the city's physical and cultural development.

Orange Art Gallery

"Fascinating Local Artworks"

Showcasing contemporary artworks and designs by local artists, Orange Art Gallery is a great place to visit if you want to get a glimpse of the local art scene of Ottawa. Works by talented local artists like David Cation, Christina Lovisa and Michael Silverstone are regularly featured. The gallery also doubles up as a school for novice art enthusiasts every Monday. Beginners can learn the basics of figurative and Encaustic paintings, polymer clay sculpting and mixed media arts through a five week introduction course. The best time to visit this gallery is during the first Thursday of every month when they host a fascinating Art Walk Event.

Cube Gallery

"Contemporary Arthouse"

Set in a spacious place, Cube Gallery is a contemporary art gallery showcasing works by both local and international artists. This avant-garde museum takes the Ottawa art scene up a notch and is the perfect place if you want to indulge your senses in contemporary art, design, sculptures and a lot more. It's easy to see that each piece on display is chosen with utmost care and effort. Rosalie Favell, William Ronald, Peter Monet, Greg Ludlow are some of the artists whose works are regularly featured. The homey atmosphere of the Cube Gallery is livened up often with various events taking place throughout the year. Attend live music events, dance performances, poetry readings and even plays and public lectures among other fascinating events. Stop by for a cultural dose and marvel at the tasteful and thought-provoking artworks, that clearly bring attention to the keen eye of the curator.
