

"Best Coffee Houses/Tea Rooms in Tokyo"

Visiting a coffee shop or tea room in Tokyo is a delightful escape from the city's hustle and bustle. Traditional tea rooms offer serene environments for savoring exquisite matcha, while modern cafes are known for their artisanal coffee creations. Some coffee shops cater to Tokyo's fast-paced lifestyle, providing quick caffeine fixes. Tokyo also embraces specialty coffee culture with artisanal roasters and pour-over brews. These cafes offer a taste of authentic Japanese flavors, making them must-visit spots for both locals and visitors.

Mariage Freres

"Exquisite Tea"

The Auguste Mariage et Compagnie Tea Company, established in the seventeenth century, was a high-end tea supplier for the Parisian upper-class. The company has retained its impeccable name and reputation and the city of Tokyo positively drinks it up; Mariage Freres has four teahouses in the city alone. Go to the elegant Ginza branch and try one of their hundreds of types of tea - if you're feeling the call of your sweet tooth, try one of their delectable desserts in the upstairs tearoom.

Omotesandō Chachanoma

"Japanese Tea Mastery"

Cha-Cha No Ma is a beautifully simple Japanese tea-house, with an expert at the helm. Yoshi Watada, after experiencing the benefits of drinking lots of green tea, dedicated his life to tea studies and Cha-Cha No Ma is the result of his life's obsession. There is an impressive range of tea available - around forty varieties. And there is an imaginative, health-centered menu in the tearoom, where you can try the ten-vegetable miso soup, or maybe a refreshing scoop of matcha ice-cream.

Streamer Coffee Company

"Quality Brews"

The Streamer Coffee Company is a chain of coffee stores that has garnered raves for its delightful lattes, espressos and more. Not only does the company roast and refine their own coffee beans, but they ensure that the beans are of the highest quality, to begin with. It's not surprising that the coffee company enjoys a loyal fan base, especially considering that it's the brainchild of Hiroshi Sawada, the 2008 champion of Free Pour Latte Art Championship. Industrial chic setting with comfortable sofas, long tables and brightly lit room creates the perfect convivial vibe to enjoy a cup of latte here.
