Savoy Hotel

"Walking Distance From Several Embassies"

Opened on 6 September 1957, this hotel is conveniently located in downtown Seoul and is within walking distance of several embassies, including the U.S., British, Japanese and Chinese. Korean-style rooms with "ondol" (heated floors) as well as Western-style rooms are available. With all the conveniences of a modern hotel, the rooms exude a feeling of comfort and coziness. The discreet lighting makes them a good choice for couples who need a retreat without high expense. American and Japanese currencies are accepted here, but rates are subject to change due to currency fluctuations.
