Loreley Beer Garden

"Restaurant and Biergarten"

This old-world German restaurant exudes a lovely continental charm. At Loreley, the classic Brauhaus-style ambiance invites patrons to indulge in good food and drinks in the heated outdoor Biergarten. Whether it's the schnitzel sandwiches, liverwurst on German rye, herring in cream sauce with onions or apples, and salt potatoes, you will be mesmerized with the melange of flavors and hearty servings. Make sure to leave some room for dessert, which includes Fried Ice Cream and Black Forrest Cake. Relax in the outdoor patio for a charming setting to enjoy your scrumptious meal.

The Half Pint

"Half Full or Half Empty Pint?"

In the West Village, The Half Pint stands at the intersection of Third and Thompson Streets. With more than 200 beer options, including 24 draft beers, The Half Pint goes all out when it comes to their beer selection. The food is fairly standard pub grub, with dishes like sliders and fish and chips. Take a moment to consider if the pint is half full or half empty if you go.

Blind Tiger

"¡Al Acecho!"

El Blind Tiger ha estado presente desde 1995, y un círculo muy unido de clientes leales todavía frecuenta este lugar, que se ha mantenido con humildad como destino favorito de locales y novatos. La razón por la que Blind Tiger continúa manteniéndose en la cima es su selección de cerveza cuidadosamente elaborada junto con algunas de las mejores comidas de pub que se puede encontrar en Nueva York. Con una elección de 30 cervezas de barril, además de más de 80 variedades embotelladas, los amantes de la cerveza tienen mucha variedad para elegir. El menú de comida no es nada especial, pero todo lo que ofrece (ensaladas, sándwiches, hamburguesas y alas) es para chuparse los dedos y garantiza una segunda ración.

Radegast Hall & Biergarten

"For the Avid Drinkers"

Located in Williamsburg, Radegast Hall and Biergarten always delivers by offering well-crafted brews from the Old Country. It also further extends the offer with the choice of either liter glasses or smaller sizes, as Radegast recalls the glory days of New York's bygone beer hall era. Twelve brews are on tap with more in the bottle, plus a decent selection of wines completes the list. Radegast Hall mainly offers German food such as sausages, rabbit and veal, which is hearty and meaty. Brunch is available on the weekends. It's an ideal spot for hanging out with a group of friends.

Brooklyn Brewery

"Beer Haven"

Brooklyn Brewery is an industrial-scale brewery that churns out one of New York's favorite beers, the Brooklyn Lager. Though it's available on tap in numerous local bars and restaurants, as well as bottled in most delis and grocery stores, appreciating the brew and the process it takes to craft is a delightful experience that should not be missed, and this brewery facilitates just that. The brewery opens its doors to beer aficionados and the curious alike for tours as well as tasting sessions. It has become a terrific social spot for New Yorkers and tourists who come for a visit. The facility goes all out to welcome visitors and even has happy hours. So drop by at Brooklyn Brewery for stellar brews and an interesting experience.

Spuyten Duyvil

"Best Beers"

Spuyten Duyvil may have an unpronounceable name ('spitting devil' in Dutch), but that doesn't stop people from flocking to this phenomenal hot spot. La Piece de Resistance is their beer selection from which you can choose by region and country, offered at their long bohemian mahogany bar, reminiscent of Bavarian brasseries of the Old World. The thoroughly un-pretentious atmosphere of well-used furniture, dim lighting, and a retro jukebox makes for a fantastic feel that can be enjoyed into the early hours of the morning.

The Jeffrey

"Atmospheric Bar & Cafe"

Café by day and a bar by night, The Jeffrey is an exciting place for both caffeine and beer lovers. Craft everything, from cocktails to beer, wines and coffee can be enjoyed at this trendy place located near Central Park. Its drinks menu is exciting and diverse, with everything from frozen and fresh cocktails, to craft beers and impressive wines. Pretzels, burgers, tacos, homemade jerky and a range of other unique treats make up the food menu here. The well-lit interiors, food, drinks, and atmospheric vibe make this a place you'll want to return to, time and again.

Bronx Alehouse

"For Beer Lovers"

A bit of a hidden gem due to its Bronx location, the Bronx Alehouse is one of the best beer bars in the city. The bar features 16 taps as well as one rotating cask, not to mention the bottle list with dozens of beers on it. Hardcore beer lovers might be interested in joining the Alehouse's Beer Club, where you (eventually) sample 100 different beers; those who complete the challenge get their name on the wall of fame in the pub. Apart from the amazing beer selection, they also offer a food menu with more or less basic pub grub. Television makes it a particularly fun place to come and watch sports.
