The Last Hurrah Bar

"Encanto clásico"

The Omni Parker House Hotel nombró a este establecimiento después de un dicho del ex alcalde de Boston, James Michael Curley. El Last Hurray Bar está inspirado en un bar americano tradicional, y solía ser un lugar caliente de política, pero ese no es el caso hoy en día. Este cálido y acogedor bar es como un pequeño almacén del siglo XX, con imágenes de políticos y senadores adornando sus paredes. Su ubicación en el Distrito Financiero atrae a la gente de negocios. Además de los habituales cócteles y bebidas finas, el lugar cuenta con una envidiable selección de whisky local. También sirven sabrosos bocadillos. Un gran lugar para relajarse después de un duro día de trabajo, con amigos y colegas, The Last Hurray es un lugar simplemente encantador.

J.J. Foley's

"So Great It's Almost Fictional"

J.J. Foley's is an authentic Irish neighborhood pub that has been run by the Foley Family since 1909. This Irish bar has an old fashion charm as well as great moderately priced beers and a welcoming atmosphere. Since the bar is near the Financial District, it tends to draw the professional set during the week, but there is a wide range of people on the weekends. Visit the dining room to enjoy a meal in a comfortable booth or stay by the bar and admire the per-prohibition decor. Live music, quiz nights and occasional parties, add to the fun.

Franklin Cafe

"Simple, Delicious And Popular"

Deep in the South End, there is a small establishment where inexpensive, gourmet-quality food really does exist. The menu at Franklin Cafe ranges from meatloaf to sushi-grade tuna, all served with impeccable sides such as mashed potatoes with chives or lentil and bean sauce. Even the chicken livers are great here. The dining room is small and crowded, and the noise level can be high. This cafe, which has a full service bar, is very popular, and waits of an hour or two are common, even on weekdays.

Brendan Behan Pub

"Auténtico bar irlandés"

El Brendan Behan Pub es un pequeño bar lleno de gente y oscuro, con un ambiente muy irlandés sin necesidad de abordar un avión. Cuenta con música irlandesa "seisiún" en vivo para entretener a los asistentes, muchos de los cuales tienen acento de Dublín cuando hablan mientras toman sus pintas de Guinness. Cuentan con platos de patatas fritas, pero no hay otra comida. Mientras se toma algo, se puede admirar la decoración irlandesa de las paredes, hacer nuevos amigos e incluso tal vez bailar una giga.
