Antone's

"Classic Blues & Rock"

This renowned blues hall showcases a variety of music in the genres of blues and rock. Bands from home and afar play here in hopes of gaining national attention. Stevie Ray Vaughan used to be a regular and Willie Nelson sometimes makes a cameo appearance. This live music venue provides an upbeat atmosphere for all ages and lifestyles. Dance up front to the band or relax in the back with a cold long neck beer.

Maggie Mae's

"Diverse Outdoor Entertainment"

This bar provides multi-level entertainment. The ground floor offers live cover-band music; passers-by can look in and see people dancing to the hits. If dancing is not your thing, sneak next door for a beer in the adjoining beer hall, or head upstairs to the more-than-ample patio overlooking the Sixth Street crowd, which may include a celebrity or two. Maggie's is famous in Austin for their motto T-shirt: "Beer. It's not just for breakfast anymore."

Elysium Nightclub

"¡Hora de Festejar!"

Elysium Nightclub cuenta con algo de la mejor música para bailar que se puede pedir. Música de los años 80, gótico, euro baile o retro, todo lleva a moverse como nunca antes. Uno de los mejores lugares de ocio en Austin, esta discoteca sacude el piso durante toda la noche. El edificio donde se encuentra tiene cientos de años de antigüedad, lo que permite un ambiente único.

The Cactus Cafe & Bar

"Songwriter's Paradise"

Located on the UT campus, this small dark cavern is a singer/songwriter paradise. The venue attracts local artists as well as nationally recognized ones. Acoustic combos also play here. The Cafe is rather small, so the acoustics are great and the audience is filled with both devoted music fans and the university crowd. It can be difficult to find; call ahead for walking directions on campus.

Continental Club

"Rock Roots y Tributos a Elvis"

Este lugar se encuentra al sur del río, y es un viaje en el tiempo a la década de 1950. La música 'rock roots' y el country predominan en este bar, donde se puede encontrar a menudo personas con chaquetas de cuero y Cadillacs clásicos estacionados afuera. Cuenta con música en vivo todas las noches, homenajes a Elvis, y aquí se celebran el cumpleaños de Hank Williams, por lo que es un lugar genial para bailar, beber y relajarse en los bancos. Las 'happy hours' cuentan con algunos de los compositores favoritos de Austin. El lugar ha ampliado su gama de música en vivo para incluir, ocasionalmente, la de 'indie rock'.

Broken Spoke

"Honky-tonk Dance Hall"

Broken Spoke is a western honky-tonk that was established in 1964 and rapidly became an Austin favorite for country-western dancing. The "Spoke" is true country in a real dance hall with a real wood-plank floor. Watch cowboys and locals two-step the night away to live bands from around Texas. This dance hall provides an excellent atmosphere for those just learning to two-step or die-hard country fans driving in from the ranch for the weekend. Practice the Polka, Texas Two-Step or the Chicken, and be sure to try the Cotton-Eyed Joe. There is also a restaurant that serves traditional country food like chicken fried steak.
