Capitol Hill Books

"Pasear durante horas"

En esta tienda engañosamente pequeña escondida en una calle lateral cerca del emblemático Eastern Market del DC, los clientes pasan horas mirando. Este espacio es una casa antigua convertida en librería, y tiene una impensada cantidad de papel; dos pisos que están llenos de literatura, historia y poesía de piso a techo. De alguna manera, el dueño sabe exactamente dónde está todo, aunque los sistemas de archivo no parecen existir. Si no se encuentra lo que se desea comprar, a menudo hay unas cuantas cajas de libros gratuitos a la salida de la tienda.

Mustard Seed

"Old & New"

Located in Bethesda's trendy downtown, Mustard Seed is a unique clothing store that buys secondhand items with labels ranging from Target brand to Prada. The way it works is that customers set up an appointment and bring in their old clothing, accessories and shoes. If the store believes the items to be in good condition, they will purchase them and sell them in their cute boutique. Because of the nature of the buying process, Mustard Seed has a new collection every week. The selection, however, pales in comparison to the incredibly low prices. It is not uncommon to find a pair of designer jeans selling for pocket change. While second-hand clothing is their main staple, Mustard Seed also sells a more expensive and trendier new collection.
